NIXON'S FORECAST

Long Dark Night About To End...

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — Presidential candidate Richard Nixon, in a rousing, sometimes emotional finale to the Republican national convention Thursday night, predicted that "the long dark night for America is about to end."

He forecast victory over the Democratic administration in the Nov. 5 general election in a televised speech promising a new order in U.S. policy at home and abroad.

The former vice-president's surprise choice as running mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, survived a minor convention revolt by easily winning a forced contest with Michigan Gov. George Romney. The vote was 1,128 to 178.

But that showdown, caused by some delegate sentiment that a better-known and more liberal figure would have aided the cause more, still left the party in a solid array compared with the divisions four years ago when Barry Goldwater's right-wing organization won control.

Nixon Wednesday night had routed Gove. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California for his second bid for the White House, and pounded the Lyndon Johnson five-year record on Vietnam, civil rights, poverty programs and crime.

Bearing, Nixon faced a long convention welcome. His acceptance speech asked the cheering delegates to "win this one for Ike" — former president Dwight Eisenhower, seriously ill in Washington with his sixth heart attack.

Then he sketched the aims of a Republican government — more liberal internationally but strong on fiscal restraint and restoring order to the American domestic scene.

It was a triumphant occasion at this 29th Republican national convention for the 55-year-old lawyer, elected vice-president back in 1952 as the youngest ever to hold the office.

The "voice of the great forgotten majority, black and white," he said, knows that the U.S. "will not be a good place for any of us to live in unless it is a good place for all of us to live in."

America is in trouble at home and abroad because "her leaders have failed."

"We are worse off in every area of the world than when President Eisenhower left office (in 1960). We need a complete house-cleaning of those responsible."

Miami's Three-Death Riot Now 'Firmly Under Control'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's riot-torn black areas, where three Negroes were shot to death and 18 persons wounded during looting and burning, was reported by the sheriff's office today to be "under firm control."

But a National Guard force equipped with everything from shotguns to flamethrowers stuck to its guns in the "occupied territory," ready to move back into action at the first sign of new flareups.

In the Liberty City district, where the first racial violence in recent Miami history broke out 10 miles from the site of the Republican national convention, police Thursday faced sniper bullets and barrages of rocks and bottles.

Then they struck back. Two Negroes were fatally wounded during an exchange of gunfire at an apartment house.

Later, when a 550-block area embracing Liberty City was barricaded and swept by National Guard troops, another Negro was shot off a porch balcony in the central Negro district to the south.

Police made 148 arrests.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy declared a 6 p.m. curfew in the troubled area. As the curfew was imposed for the first time Thursday night, troop carriers swept the streets, huge searchlights swinging slowly from side to side.

"We're going to clean these streets," one officer barked to his men. "We're taking no bull this time."

But, as the impressive show of force brought quiet to Liberty City, new trouble erupted in the central district.

Sgt. James H. Tombly, a wounded Miami policeman, said a volley of shots was fired from a rooftop at Northwest 22nd Street and Northwest 3rd Avenue.

"We returned the gunfire," he said.

Plane Crashes In Germany Leaving Total Of 48 Dead

MUNICH (AP) — A British Eagle International Airlines jet crashed at Pfaffenhofen, West Germany, today and police reported all aboard were killed.

Police put the number at 57 but the airline said the plane carried 44 passengers and a crew of four.

The four-engine Viscount turboprop airliner crashed and burned about 300 yards from the Munich-Berlin autobahn in grey, misty weather, federal officials said. First reports from police had said the plane crashed on the super highway.

All available emergency vehicles and fire equipment were sent to the scene. Pfaffenhofen is 24 miles north of Munich.

Police said the plane was on a flight from London to Innsbruck, Austria.

Regatta 'Gate' Varies Daily

Regatta officials are happy with Wednesday's attendance figures for City Park admissions and those to the night show, but Thursday is termed "a disappointment."

A total of 8,619 people paid 50 cents to enter the City Park Wednesday, for a total revenue of $3,256. On the same day last year, 7,141 people paid 25 cents for a total of $1,785.

Paid admissions to the night show Wednesday totalled 2,642. There is no comparative figure for last year.

Thursday, 4,780 people paid a total of $2,003 to enter City Park, compared with 7,321 and $1,830 in 1967.

Attendance at Thursday's night show was a big disappointment to officials. There were 1,205 paid admissions.

Someone decided to let young people in free after the show began, but officials stopped the free admissions after about 50 had been let through.

On Thursday last year 1,900 people paid to see the night show, and in 1966 there were 1,486 paid admissions.

JAIL FOR CRIMINALS

SUDBURY, Ont. (AP) — A criminal court Friday sentenced two former Gestapo officials to life in prison for the wartime murder of Jews in Poland. Michael Plesch, 52, was convicted of killing eight Jews, and Paul Kohn, 58, of killing six, while the two men were members of the Hitler's secret police.

POST OFFICE KELOWNA

JUDY MALEN, 18, RR 3, Kelowna, heard the mail strike ended Thursday and rushed to the Kelowna Post Office with her accumulated mail. She is only one of many people expected to flood post offices across Canada after a 22-day abstinence. Postal workers say mail movement will be slow until trucks are in operation again. (Courier photo)

Wind Helps N.W.T. Town Escape Fire

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — A favorable southeasterly wind helped protect this Mackenzie Delta town from a forest fire burning to the north early today but there was no sign of the rain needed to bring the blaze under control.

A force of 100 men fought the blaze throughout the night and forestry officers Wil Taylor said nearly every one of the Arctic community's 2,500 residents has volunteered to help.

The main fire was burning in a five-square-mile area north of the town and left small blazes along a four-mile path, over which it had travelled in a quarter-circle arc from the town's southeastern outskirts Thursday.

At one time, it had reached within a few feet of Inuvik's main water supply and threatened a lumber camp but there was no immediate threat to any settled area.

Smoke from the fire obscured a clear sky today as a high temperature of 75 degrees was forecast. The wind was expected to remain southeasterly at five miles an hour, blowing the flames away from the town.

Equipment flown in overnight from Aklavik, 40 miles west across the delta, and other nearby communities, was helping the firefighters.

Six bulldozers were busy constructing firebreaks between the populated area and the flames.

The east channel of the Mackenzie River protects Inuvik on the west and southwest and firefighters hoped the prevailing wind would blow the fire clear of the forested area to the north.

Daring Young Men To Go By Balloon

HALIFAX (CP) — Two Toronto actors and stuntmen made final preparations today for their takeoff on a planned historic Atlantic crossing by balloon from nearby Hartlands Point.

Mark Winters, 35, and Jerry Kostur, 29, failed in their first attempt last June to take off in their balloon from western Cape Breton because of transport department regulations, were checking wind conditions in preparation for their takeoff early Saturday.

The pair will try for three records in their flight in a 15-foot gondola suspended beneath the 65-foot-high helium-filled balloon.

They will attempt to become the first to cross the Atlantic by balloon, cover the greatest distance ever in a balloon and remain aloft the longest time in a balloon.

Inflation of the balloon will begin shortly after midnight tonight at the scene of the takeoff and if westerly, north-northwesterly or north winds prevail the pair will embark between 7 and 10 a.m.

One hundred and twenty cylinders of helium required to fill the 35,000-cubic-foot balloon were trucked to the scene of the takeoff earlier this week.

Airport Swamped

LONDON (AP) — London Airport, the largest in Europe, was reduced to chaos today by more than half an inch of rainfall in an hour which flooded the area. Police had to close the terminal for inbound motor traffic and call in firemen to pump out the water.

'Panthers' Nabbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight Negroes believed by police to be members of the militant Black Panthers were arrested today following a gun battle with officers in a downtown housing project.

Leftist Unwanted

SAN DIEGO (Reuters) — The American Legion has launched a campaign to remove philosopher Herbert Marcuse, 70-year-old apostle of the New Left, from his teaching chair at the University of California.

RADIO ABOARD

The balloon is equipped with a transmitter and receiver and the adventurers plan to maintain radio contact with weather ships during their flight.

"It's been harder to get off the ground than to fly," he said in referring to the delays encountered since they first planned the flight a year ago.

Winters, married and a father of five, originated the plan. The two were within hours of a take-off from Cape Breton last June when transport department officials ordered their stock of helium seized because they were not licensed for night flying and lacked certain navigational lights.

PM Sports Beige Suit

STAFFORD, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, wearing a beige suit and crimson ascot, drew a standing ovation when he arrived at the Festival Theatre Thursday night to see a production of Romeo and Juliet.

He arrived here Thursday for a weekend visit which was to include several receptions and viewing of three plays before leaving for Ottawa early Sunday.

Being Premier Bennett's chauffeur has advantages and apparently eliminates some parking problems. The unidentified driver Thursday stopped on Leam Avenue across from the Kelowna Club, backed across the line of traffic and backed into an angle parking space. The police later went by and "looked the other way."

Several hundred people watched the Regatta free show from outside the Aquatic Thursday. They saw the aerial displays and parachute drops, and later listened to the rock groups, which came over loud and clear outside the grandstand. The walk along the lakeshore near the yacht basin was crowded with "freelookers."

A CBC newsmen was mildly perturbed Wednesday when he returned for his car which had been parked for about 10 minutes near the City Park. Apparently he never noticed the No Parking sign and the car was towed away. It cost him $5 to redeem the auto. But he was not alone as at least 10 other cars suffered the same fate.

People watching the Armed Forces search and rescue demonstration Thursday night from the Ogopogo Stadium couldn't help but be impressed. The crew from Connors on Vancouver Island put two jumpers into Okanagan Lake "right on the money," less than 25 feet from the pool edge, then landed and took off in the Albatross as close as possible to the stadium, giving everyone an excellent view.

Mad Rush Was Expected But Public Played It 'Cool'

Kelowna postal officials were amazed today at the quietness of the re-opening of the post office after the 22-day strike.

"I thought there would be people clamoring all over the place," said postmaster Jack Burgess, "but business started very slowly and is building up."

He said an increased pace is anticipated as people realize the strike is over.

"We are geared for an increase, with off-duty staff standing by to return to work if things get hectic," he said.

Two night shift workers went on duty at 12:01 a.m. today to start clearing the mail picked up from street letter boxes and that left in the post office during the strike. The total, from the street boxes and post office, amounted to 2,200 pieces, a surprisingly small number, Mr. Burgess said.

At 8 a.m. normal day workers returned to work and wicket service was resumed.

Most first mail was monthly statements from local firms, but even this type was light.

Carriers went on their rounds at normal times, delivering mail caught in the post office after the embargo went into effect.

The first mail leaving Kelowna was district deliveries to Winfield, Oyam and Okanagan Centre. The first big dispatch was to be made at 2:30 p.m. today when a load of air mail goes out.

The first out-of-town mail arrived by air from Vancouver at 9:30 a.m., but was light. A heavier arrival is expected at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and some eastern mail at 9:30 a.m. the same day.

Ben Wicks

"Should you not reply by Aug. 1st, 1968, we shall assume that you have refused the $1,000,000 first prize!"

Bills Seem To Be Everywhere

In Toronto, the first night shift reported to work at 10 p.m. Thursday and was faced with sorting about 500,000 telephone bills and 600,000 department store bills.

"Telephone bills, that's all I've seen so far," said Jim Brunne, one of about 120 clerks in the first shift.

"Sure, it's good to be back," said Brunne, one of 24,000 workers who went on strike across Canada July 18. "Who doesn't like to get back to work?"

McL. Wilde, one of the Toronto strike co-ordinators, said the back-up of mail is "worse than Christmas."

Montreal postal workers, who voted by a slim margin to reject the government's contract proposal, were all back at work today, but their job of clearing the backlog of mail was hampered by the striking mail truck drivers.

The drivers, employed by Rod Service Co. Ltd., walked off the job to back demands for back-pay covering the time they were unemployed because of the postal strike.

Ottawa postal officials reported no significant backlog of mail, but they expected a heavy influx of mail stored up by government departments.

REGATTA CHATTER

Boats certainly are a popular vantage point for watching water ski activities on the west side of Okanagan Lake, near the old ferry landing. There were people watching junior boys' jumping Thursday afternoon from 16 outboards. Waves were moving gently toward shore and every 20 minutes or so the boat operators had to move away from the course.

ple of why the crews are rated among the best in the world.

Has anyone ever heard of anything so ridiculous as turning down the sound at a Regatta night show? The request was made during the Regatta happening Thursday night, but by the time the Rotations had finished their second stage session the sound was back to a near screaming level, the way it has to be for full teen enjoyment and appreciation of the rock music.

Judge Jim Burns of Haughton, Wash., is missing from this year's Regatta scene and many of his friends wonder why. Judge Burns fell recently and broke his hip and the mishap has forced him to stay home. He was the man who first gave the Regatta the right to call itself an international show. In the 1950s he hitchhiked from Wenatchee to enter the swimming events, the first American competitor in Regatta history.

George Towill, former PRO man for the CNR in Vancouver is here again. But this time in an unofficial capacity. It was he who 18 years ago started the CN breakfast for the press. During the 18 years the affair was enlarged to include Regatta officials and some town dignitaries. But basically it remained a press affair and one of the more delightful and popular interludes of the Regatta.

Towill, now retired, says he just had to come back to see his old friends here. We suspect, too, that he just wanted to keep an eye on the operation of his creation the first year he had no connection with it officially.

Spaerball has been an overwhelming success at Regatta but the game almost didn't arrive for the first exhibition Wednesday. An over-zealous guard slowed the truck carrying the equipment at the City Park entrance. The truck didn't have the necessary sticker allowing it into the park.

KELOWNA MAN BEATS PROBLEM

Coin Shortage Small Change Here

There is a serious coin shortage in Kelowna, as well as across the nation, and a city man has come up with a gimmick to tide him over until new coins arrive in town.

Harold Long, president of Long Super Drugs Ltd., said he has ordered aluminum tokens from a Pentecost farm in dotations of 25, 10 and five cents and will start using them in his stores.

When a customer collects $1 worth, he can redeem the tokens for a dollar bill and when the coin shortage is over, every token will be redeemed by the firm for its face value.

Banks contacted Wednesday said they would not recognize the aluminum tokens, since they are not legal tender, but this is not bothering Mr. Long, who is issuing them for his own convenience.

One bank said it had been cautious with its coin supply for the past six weeks but had enough to carry on with until the new issue reaches Kelowna.

"We bought a supply when the shortage was rumored," one bank spokesman said. "There just aren't any old coins available now."

Another bank said it had been in quite short supply in the past month, but had recently received a small shipment from Vancouver.

People had offered to bring coin collections to the bank for a percentage, but the offer was refused as banks do not consider themselves in the money-buying market.

The national shortage is said to be caused by large quantities being taken south of the border to be melted by foundries for the high silver content. The new Canadian issue pending, will have a much smaller silver content.

Canadian collectors are also helping create the shortage. One Kelowna supermarket spokesman said about two weeks ago his store was in "desperate" need of coins, but has been able to find some outside of the banks.

"We have brought money in from Vancouver and about three weeks ago we started a program of asking customers to pay in coin," one manager said. "This relieved the situation."

He said his store would not issue tokens, "we're not that desperate."

The few stores contacted said they would not honor tokens from Long's.

RCMP were skeptical but refused to comment for or against the idea of using tokens for coins, "would have to be looked into."

Mr. Long anticipated his tokens would arrive in time to start using them today.

Okanagan Priest Plans To Be Padre In Vietnam

A Roman Catholic missionary priest from the Okanagan, has volunteered for service as a U.S. Navy chaplain in Vietnam. Rev. Ron. Blaquiere, of Penticton, a missionary to British Columbia Indians for 14 years, said Thursday he has written to President Johnson and U.S. military authorities asking permission to serve. Svetlana Alliluyeva has written a friend that she burned her Soviet passport last summer "so that no one could ever get the idea" that she might return to Moscow, the New York Times says. The story says the 43-year-old daughter of Joseph Stalin indicated that she intended to seek United States citizenship.

Sixteen years of Russian press hostility to Richard M. Nixon ended abruptly Thursday as Kremlin leaders clearly took a new look at the man who might be the next president of the United States. The most striking sign of the change was a biography of Nixon in the Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, which completely ignored the Republican presidential nominee's membership on the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities in the late 1940s.

Nixon Plays Softly On Anti-Red Pedal

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — He apparently referred to the Republican accusation, an echo of the contention made by Democratic candidate John F. Kennedy against the eight-year Republican government eight years ago, that the U.S. had frittered away a missile lead over the Soviet Union.

Nixon has said he plans to keep the Vietnam war, or at least the so-called peace talks at Paris, out of the campaign for the Nov. 5 election.

But foreign policy looms large in his plans, with the former vice-president appearing to emphasize his extensive foreign travels and contacts with world leaders.

What he has been saying appears tailored to a conviction that the U.S. electorate is fed up with the Vietnam war and that the Communist world has changed drastically.

Nixon's career in Congress began with—and was strengthened by—a strong anti-Communist record, notably the Alger Hiss case. His new stand puts him to the left of many members of the party he now leads again.

Chicago Set For Democrats

CHICAGO (AP) — The International Amphitheatre gradually is taking on the appearance of a political convention hall.

The rostrum on the north side of the arena is shaping up to the hum of electric saws and the beat of hammers, but these sound effects will give way to the rap of a gavel when the Democratic national convention opens Aug. 26.

Steel supports for partitions are being put in place in the north wing for workrooms for news services and newspapers. Workmen are plastering the walls of broadcasting studios in the south wing. Several telephone switchboards have been installed.

"We're right on schedule," said a spokesman for the Amphitheatre management.

"TV cables are up and in," said Francis D. Cunningham, business representative of Local 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and co-ordinator of the communications project.

"I can't say when we'll finish until the users get their final orders in."

Original orders were changed in some instances because of a shift in main candidate headquarters and news workrooms from downtown hotels to the Amphitheatre.

The switch followed the IBEW strike against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

The union agreed to allow members to install communications equipment for news media and the party in the Amphitheatre, but nowhere else. The volunteers began the task July 25.

Another dispute lay in telephones for the headquarters of the All Illinois Committee for Humphrey.

The Island Loses Power

VICTORIA (CP) — A cable fault Thursday evening cut power to a trickle in most of Vancouver Island and a power surge from the Island triggered power cuts of up to 90 minutes in Utah and Wyoming.

Problems were blamed on an undetermined cable fault between a substation in Surrey B.C., and Ladner, B.C., 20 miles south of Vancouver. From Ladner, 520 230-kilovolt cables go to Vancouver Island.

The fault developed shortly before 5 p.m. PDT. Service was back in all Island areas but Victoria by 5:15 and in Victoria, which suffered several power cuts, by shortly before 6 p.m.

Bail Granted In Drug Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bail of $35,000 each was set Thursday for five Vancouver area men charged with conspiracy to traffic in heroin.

Edward Ponak, 33; Romeo Zanatta, 42, and Ido Zamai, 35, all of Vancouver; Conrad William Gunn, 35, of North Vancouver; and John McKeoff, 34, of Burnaby were arrested at their homes Wednesday.

Crown prosecutor Norma Christie asked for bail of $100,000 each, saying the arrests followed a three-year investigation of an alleged drug ring she claimed controlled much of the drugs sold on the illicit heroin market in Vancouver.

The five men were remanded to Aug. 15 without plea.

Regatta Finale Most Busy Day

If Murray Joyce had a motor scooter and entered it in this weekend's Lake fare he'd go down like the Titanic and stay there.

Don't tell Murray but the scooter he's priming is not meant for the water and six other craft just might have the edge.

The occasion for his undoing is the water scooter competition at 4 p.m. Saturday, only one of many events planned for Okanagan Lake.

The Water Scooter Championships, first of their kind held in B.C., will be visible from the Kelowna Aquatic and Ogopogo Pool grandstand and the action should be hot and heavy as the machines, manufactured by the same company which manufactures a leading line of snow scooters, make their debut. There will be no admission charge to the grandstand.

Event chairman Frank Addison says the water scooter will become as popular as the snow machine in the summer and if this is so then the races could become an annual event.

Highlights of the spectacular stage and open water show on Kelowna's lakefront will be a full schedule of powerboat racing, with outboards capable of speeds of 80 mph. An all-star water ski display Saturday afternoon, sponsored by Gestetner of Canada and Lucky Lager, includes barefoot skiing and kite flying, plus a ski-parachute demonstration. U.S. Olympic gold medalist Pat McCormick will close out her four-day stand and her high divers should continue to shine.

The ill-fated hydroplanes which were re-routed from Kelowna when officials were unable to obtain a sanction, will be replaced by 15 units from a club in Vancouver.

On tap are four heats of outboard racing, featuring limited outboard craft of up to 100 hp and unlimiteds boasting 225 hp engines. The schedule kicks off at 1:30 p.m. with a 10-lap heat of the limited outboards followed a half hour later by the first 10 laps of the unlimiteds. Second heat of the limiteds in a 15-lap race at 2:15, with a second heat of unlimiteds following.

Competition continues through the afternoon and at 3 p.m. the unlimiteds head out on the final heat of a 15-lap run. Time for the Aqua Ski show and the kite-man is 1:30 p.m. and the professional diving 3:30 p.m.

The day's water events begin on the west side of Okanagan Lake at 8:30 a.m. when the Pacific Northwest Water Ski Championships begin adjacent to the old ferry slip.

The water activity concludes with the scooters. Besides these events there will be competitive diving at Aquatic Pool, 10 a.m., baton twirling with Helen Donnelly's troop at 1:30 p.m. and the beginning of a two-day soccer tournament at 3 p.m. at City Park Oval. Teams come from Kelowna, Vernon, Penticton, Nelson, Burnaby and Vancouver.

Saturday should be a busy Regatta day with never a dull moment. A fireworks display is scheduled for 10:30 p.m. in front of the grandstand.

SPLASH-DOWN AND LIFT-OFF

Pin-point accuracy and rapid execution are the bywords of this search and rescue team from Canadian Forces Base, Comox. The Albatross triphibian aircraft, able to land on water, land or snow, and two parachutists gave a demonstration of the team's effectiveness to the International Regatta show Thursday. The rubber-suited parachutists, top showed amazing skill in handling the big silk, dropping into the water within 20 feet of each other and the same distance from the Ogopogo Stadium stage. One of the men has more than 300 jumps behind him. The Albatross, bottom, showed similar accuracy.

landing and taking off directly in front of the stadium. Here it spouts purple fire and a deafening roar as it performs a jet-assisted take-off. (Courier photo)

VALLEY SCENE

Driving, as usual at this time of year, is a slightly risky business. Many drivers, most of them from outside B.C., are turning both right and left off streets without signaling; not turning right on red lights after stopping when the road is clear and generally emphasizing the need for defensive driving by everyone.

Sights and sounds of vacation time in the Okanagan: two young boys sitting in the rear of a station wagon from Ohio on Bernard Avenue Thursday discussing pollution, both air and water, in the United States, but never any mention of problems in Okanagan Lake. Like most visitors, they simply can't see anything wrong with the water to bother people.

Col. D. N. D. Deane-Freeman, a regular visitor to Kelowna in his capacity as district officer commanding headquarters, Pacific region, has finally caught Regatta City fever on a permanent basis. When he returns in April he plans to move to Kelowna.

The Castles' Only Family Are Their Little People

One item in the Regatta program this year for children (and adults too) is Rex Castle and the Little People.

Rex hails from Phoenix, Ariz., and he is no part-time puppeteer, but a professional with 20 years experience. To him, puppets are his whole life.

He is married, his wife is a professional singer and with him in Kelowna. Their only children are their puppet family.

With them here is professor Salami, a piano player so "hot" he makes the piano smoke. Then there's Sarah, a chanteuse, a barbershop trio featured in Klondike Days in Edmonton and Madame Mimmi, an ostrich with her tiny son Herkener.

The puppets range in size from the 36-inch Sarah to eight-inch (with his neck stretched) Herkener.

Mr. Castle works before his audience in plain sight, rather than from behind a screen. He operates the puppet strings from a hand control. The barbershop trio has 30 strings which must be controlled by one pair of hands.

This is not Mr. Castle's first trip to Kelowna, he was here six years ago with Eddie Peabody, a banjo player. He has worked supper clubs in Vancouver and Montreal and coast to coast in the U.S.

There are other puppets which are not with him in Kelowna, one an exotic dancer, not considered up to children's entertainment standards, and a singer too fond of her drinks.

Mr. Castle has a master's degree in fine arts and almost became a teacher once, but decided in favor of "strictly pulling strings for a living."

He got started in puppets at the age of 10 when visiting an aunt who was giving a summer art course. He started helping her and the interest grew and grew.

He creates his own characters, then finds a record suitable to carry out the theme. He gives a variety show in miniature, with puppets who play, dance and sing.

In addition to his full-time work with puppets, he has other hobbies such as sketching, painting, rock hounding, wood working and interior designing.

Hot weather is expected to continue in the Okanagan through Saturday.

Skies should be mainly sunny Saturday, with a few cloudy periods in the afternoon and the possibility of a few showers or thunderstorms along the mountains.

The forecasted low tonight and high Saturday is 57 and 87. Winds light occasionally north-easterly.

The low and high recorded in Kelowna Thursday were 49 and 81, compared with 57 and 84 and a trace of rain on the same date a year ago.

REGATTA MIDWAY

Losing Money For Good Cause

By DOUG MacDONALD
Courier Staff Writer

If you feel lucky and are thinking of making a fortune at Regatta midway games, you will soon find that the bite is worse than the bark.

The bark is the never-ending cry of "Step right up, a winner every time" by the barkers at the games of chance. And the bite is watching your quarters disappearing into the barkers' apron. Even a moment's look at the crown and anchor, panda wheel, bingo and others will show the odds, sometimes ever so slightly, always rest with the house.

In a way, losing your money to the Kinenen midway games is not so bad, as all proceeds stay in the community for charity work. But it still hurts to spend half an hour or so feeding the insatiable wheels of fortune.

To get an idea of your chances of winning, take a look at the crown and anchor:

The player makes a bet on one of six symbols—spades, hearts, clubs, diamonds, crown or anchor. The wheel, crowning who wins contains 34 spaces containing one, two or three of each symbol. If, for example, you place your bet (25 cents to $2) on a club, and one club comes up on the wheel you win even money. If it's two clubs, you win twice your bet, three clubs wins three times your bet.

Nine slots of the 34 on the wheel contain at least one of any one symbol. So your chances of winning anything at all are one-in-six. If you do win, your chances of making even, twice or three times your bet are the same, averaging two-to-one in your favor. Combined with the one-in-six odds, however, this leaves you with only one chance in three of breaking even at the game.

How much does the house make? There are 18 betting spots around the table, three of each symbol, so if the table is full there are three possible winners, 15 losers. Assuming all bets are equal at $1, the house makes at the worst at least $6 with every spin of the wheel, at best $12.

Crown and anchor operators say they can and do lose money, but only to a gambler on a winning streak who may recognize the streak and begin betting high. The first of the table, although losing, usually bet too low to pay for the winning streak.

Most midway games are designed similarly—odds always for the house. The panda wheel has numbers 1 to 20, and it costs a dime to bet on any number. So your chances are 1-to-20. If you do win, it's a panda bear, worth less than $1. Assuming this table was full, the house would make $1.90 and hand over a prize worth possibly half this much.

Bingo is a big money-maker; at least 75 people can pay 15 cents each to play. One person, occasionally two, win and are presented with a prize. The prizes are more expensive than other booth's offerings, but the profit margin is still a large one.

However, the lure of the Regatta midway lasts only four days each year and the thought of losing money is eased, if only slightly, by the knowledge that proceeds go to good causes.

CUPE Members Voting Tonight

Members of the Mainline Okanagan Valley Municipal Employees Union will hold a general membership meeting at the legion hall in Kelowna today at 8 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss a conciliation board report which recommended an average 10-per-cent pay increase for employees.

A vote will be taken at the meeting, to accept or reject the report. The conciliation board met in Kelowna July 8 and 9, with representatives of the Canadian Union of Public Employees who are attempting to negotiate a master contract, and representatives of the 12 municipalities involved. The report was released this week in Victoria.

Harley Horne, Kelowna,

CUPE spokesman, indicated earlier the general feeling of the membership was "non-acceptance." Union member Lorrie Robson, a member of the board, dissented and called the report biased in favor of management.

Basically the new agreement would give outside workers increases of 5½ per cent this year, retroactive to Jan. 1, and a further five per cent, Jan. 1, 1969.

In the same period inside workers would be given five per cent and 4½ per cent, based on 1968 rates.

Municipalities involved are Kelowna, Kamloops, Lillooet, district of Coldstream, Merritt, Oliver, Osoyoos, Penticton, Revelstoke, the village and district of Salmon Arm and Vernon.

Starlight Variety Production Set For Today And Saturday

Variety is the spice of life and by noon Saturday the same may be said of Friday night's star-studded variety show.

Regatta officials are not guaranteeing another happening tonight, but the night show should be alive with activity nonetheless.

Pat McCormick, who has thrilled Kelowna audiences for the last two days will be back again with her championship divers for another go, and the show which runs intact Saturday is a switch from the fast-paced teen-oriented outpouring which happened Thursday. This show, the Starlight Varieties will be family-oriented, with something for everyone.

Talented humorist-singer and impressionist Dick Kerr will be featured. The performer, who hails from Turtle Creek, Penn., and fancies himself a sort of philosopher-comedian attempts anything in impressions, even those which are near impossible to capture and transmit to the audience.

Also getting their first taste of Kelowna audiences is the vocal and comedy team of Sue Wilson and Jay Hoyle, plus magician Francis Martineau.

Martineau, an outstanding personality and talented Canadian has an interesting history in and out of show business. Audiences might have a difficult time imagining the polished stage veteran as a lumberjack, but that he was. He has come a long way since then and his slow motion impressions of a golfer, championship bowler, baseball men, tennis ace, football star, archery expert and boxer are something to see.

The program is completed by a water ballet directed by Kelowna's Jan Wood, Gina Funes, and Fred Radke a vocalist, trumpet, player combination and the Rudenko Brothers who juggle anything from an Indian club to a flaming torch.

The stage show is preceded by introduction of visiting dignitaries and local officials at 8:30 p.m. and a presentation of the 1968 aggregate swimming awards by Lady of the Lake Marina Maundrell. The notable are Vice-Commodore, Police Chief Bill Reich of Wenatchee, Regatta chairman Murray Joyce and Kelowna Chamber of Commerce President N. B. Winsby. An awe-inspiring display of lighted sailboats will end the show and the only thing missing from Friday night's fare is a fireworks display scheduled for 24 hours and another day's entertainment later.

Police 'Rest' Well Earned

A weary Kelowna RCMP detachment received a brief respite Wednesday and overnight from the usual hectic pace of Regatta week, reporting no serious mishaps but the usual rash of minor incidents.

Only five arrests were made in the last 24 hours, four of these for intoxication and they were released after being lodged in the police cells for the night. This was a distinct lull compared with the 13 arrests made Wednesday. However, the general behavior in Kelowna may be a pause before the storm, as Friday and Saturday are traditionally the busiest for police during Regatta.

One stolen car, belonging to William Schmidt, Kelowna was reported stolen from a street Thursday evening. Complaints of disturbances, hippies in City Park and the like continued to fill the Mounties' occurrence book.

An estimated $500 damage was done in a car accident on Highway 97 at 7 p.m. Thursday involving Clarence Bezarre, Vermillion, Alta. and Wayne Jasper, North Surrey. No injuries resulted.

Attendance Not Impressive But Enthusiasm Was There

Thursday's night show, the second of this year's international Regatta, took a large upswing, both in tempo and audience participation.

Ogopogo Pool never heard such sounds before, as four rock groups kicked off a four-hour Regatta happening, a teen-oriented program which, judged by its success, should be back next year. The crowd of about 2,000, somewhat smaller than Wednesday night's audience, made up for its size with enthusiasm. Kelowna's youth seemed to be a lot more alive than the first night's ho-hum audience.

Forming the core of the "happening" were both American and Canadian groups performing on a stage turned into a jungle of wires, amplifiers and electronic gadgetry. As the psychodelically-lighted musicians sent their sounds thrumming and shivering over a calm lake, some of the older folk looked a little puzzled by it all—no doubt wondering what a Regatta audience of 60 years ago would have thought of it all. A few left early, writing the whole thing off as meaningless cacophony.

The show began with a search and rescue demonstration by a triphibian Albatross from 442 squadron, Canadian Forces Base, Comox. Thundering ponderously back and forth across the sky, the big bird sped out two parachutists from about 1,500 feet up.

Experts in both water and air, the two paratroopers hit the bullseye, dropping into the lake within feet of the stadium stage. The Albatross, which looks ungainly in the air, belied its appearance by touching down, stopping within 600 feet and picking up the two parachutists with graceful manoeuvrability. With a deafening roar the plane fired JATO bottles (for Jet-Assist Take Off) and climbed back into the sky at a seemingly impossible angle.

Strange Movies, a local rock group, took on the difficult job of warming up the audience for the "happening." Backed by an excellent lead guitar player, the four singers did a smooth-edged job, especially with the instrumental part of Spontiful of Coffee.

At the end of her first full day's reign as the 1968 Lady of the Lake, 17-year-old Marina Maundrell was introduced to the audience by Regatta general chairman Murray Joyce. She was accompanied by her Lady in Waiting, Val Paul.

The next group to plug in their amplifiers was The Dream Factory, from California. These boys did up the best performance of the evening, showing amazing versatility of style and volume. Dressed in white Nehru suits, the youths might better be called the Electric Sponge, for they present a strange mixture of traditional and way-out sounds, seeming to soak up a little of the best of a great many other groups. At one point, they sound like the crooning Lettermen; at another they throw every amp of racket they can; next they sound like a hot-upt group of Ink Spots. But their style is polished with much professional know-how and their lead singer does a fine job at singing "soul", ballads and blues alike.

Pat McCormick and her team of professional divers gave the ear a rest with their usual precision performance. Later in the evening a lighter touch was added to the diving by the Aquamaniacs, a team of clown divers, with a hilarious routine.

Then it was electronic "sock-it-to-me" time again with The Rotations, another American group of rock artists. Their main claim to fame is their versatility—they play a total of 45 instruments, including an organ and electric zither.

NO STYLE
With guitars, they are competent, but not particularly distinguished; they lack an original style. When they turn to brass two trumpets and a trombone—they are almost bad, doing a poorly-timed rehash of Tijuana Brass numbers.

The beautifully-lighted graceful water ballet entitled King Neptune's Daughters was next on the program and a delight to the audience. Mrs. Jan Wood, producer of the show, has really captured an ethereal spirit with this one.

Last on the "happening" portion of the show was The Wiggy Symphony, a group featured for some time on the CBC's Let's Go show. These five boys were also competent with their instruments but rather uninspired in style. They did a wide selection of numbers, ranging from early Beatles hits to modern psychedelic "things".

When it was all over, older people headed home with jangled ears; but for the teens the night was still young. They headed for the arena to dance until 2 a.m. to The Rotations.

Young Offender Faces Nine Month Sentence

A local youth was given a combined sentence of nine months definite and two years less one day indeterminate in prison by magistrate D. M. White today.

Three charges were laid against 18-year-old Stewart Fuson, who was arrested July 27 for loitering on private property. He was convicted of this charge and of assaulting a police officer in magistrate's court last Friday. A further charge of destruction of police property was heard today.

Another Kelowna youth, 19-year-old Peter McGrath, was arrested with Fuson and received a 12-month probationary sentence today for loitering on private property. Magistrate White, who earlier heard McGrath testify he was intoxicated when arrested, warned the boy not to drink during probation.

While sentencing Fuson, the magistrate reminded him of earlier convictions on similar charges. "I hope you come out a better man than you go in," he said, recommending Fuson serve his sentence at the correctional institute in Haney.

RCMP told the court Fuson had scratched his name on the wall of the cell he was locked in, and jammed the lock of another cell by shoving a plastic spoon inside and breaking it off. A locksmith had to be called to release a prisoner behind the jammed lock.

Fuson received two months in jail for each of loitering and destruction of property convictions. For assaulting a police officer, he was given nine months definite and two years less one day indeterminate. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Also convicted today were: Fred Slirman, Vancouver, $100 or 30 days in jail for causing a public disturbance. Peter Graham, Vancouver, $50 for being a minor in possession of alcohol. Walter Sherstobloff, Westbank, $35 for following another vehicle too closely for conditions. Clarence Bezarre, Vermillion, Alta., $50 for making an unsafe left turn off highway. Holger Normann, Vancouver, $100 or 30 days in jail for common assault.

Harms Rites On Saturday

Funeral service will be held Saturday for a Rutland man who lost his life in a single-car accident near Coquitlam.

Rudolph Harms, 22, was born in Oliver, moving to Rutland later with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Harms, Hollywood Road.

Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers and two sisters, Walter, Ross, River, Yukon; John, Kelowna and Robert at home, Gerda (Mrs. Frank Dueck) Intland, Margaret (Mrs. C. H. Wiebe) Kelowna and three nephews and three nieces.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. in the First Memorial Church, Glenora Street, with Rev. J. A. Jensen officiating. Burial will be in the Kelowna Cemetery.

NO INJURIES

A three-car collision in downtown Kelowna today resulted in about $1,800 damage and a charge against a Winfield man.

RCMP charged Fred Werewicz, Winfield, with going through a red light at the corner of Harvey Avenue and Richter Street. No injuries occurred in the mishap.

The other drivers involved, both from Kelowna, were Frank Acres and Mary Anne Sargent.

Edmonton To Get Blast

Edmonton visitors in Kelowna are upset because that city was not represented in the Regatta parade Wednesday.

"We are going to the city council when we get home and protest," said Mrs. Felix Fritz of Edmonton.

"Edmonton has a lovely float, why wasn't it here?" she said. "Kelowna sent a float to Edmonton."

Mrs. Fritz is not a woman to talk and take no action. She and her husband and eight-year-old daughter Lorraine, are here as visitors. Lorraine is a song and dance artist who has performed in Klondike Days at Edmonton.

Her parents asked Regatta officials for an audition and now Edmonton has a representative on the program. Lorraine performed free-of-charge on the poolside stage, Thursday at 3 p.m. and will repeat her act Friday and Saturday.

Sun-Rype Man Hurt

A Sun-Rype Products worker is in "fair" condition today in Kelowna General Hospital after being injured in a fall Thursday.

John Jenel, 807 Coronation Ave., was working alone at the Sun-Rype plant about 10 a.m. when he apparently tripped and fell backward onto a concrete floor from a height of four feet. The nature of Mr. Jenel's injuries are not known.

The worker, in his early 60s, was taken to hospital by ambulance where he... spent a good night as could be expected, according to hospital staff.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 9, 1968 — PAGE 4

The Recreation Boom Is Potent Business Force

This week in Kelowna we are experiencing a small part of a great outdoors boom which is sweeping the continent. Essentially the Regatta is an outdoor affair composed of a dozen outdoor activities. As such it is a segment of the great boom which is enveloping record numbers of people who are spending money as never before for all manners of sports and recreation.

Across the continent golf courses are jammed; millions are taking to the water in pleasure boats, fishing is in a boom; camping is gaining new devotees; tennis is regaining its popularity; surfing is becoming a major sport. Nothing like it has ever been seen before as it is an astonishing picture of a continent at play.

It is estimated that 100 million Americans engage in one of more forms of outdoor recreation. Proportionately the figure is probably also true in Canada. In most phases of life the Canadian pattern parallels the American. The 100 million Americans are estimated to spend $50 billion every year for equipment, fees and related expenses on these sports. This makes recreation one of the biggest industries on the continent, supporting thousands of workers directly and providing a powerful push for businesses of all kinds.

Take boating for example. Sales of goods and services in this field were more than $3 billion last year in the United States. More than 7 million Americans own pleasure boats, most of which have motors and tie up at the 5,500 marinas and docks.

Closely related to the increase in pleasure boats is the increase in fishing. There were 27 million fishing licences issued last year, up more than a million in a year. It is estimated that 30 million fish, with or without a licence and in the sea where none is needed. In 1967, it is estimated that fishermen bought tackle and other equipment worth more than $3 billion. One sport spawns activity in other sports.

Ten million Americans are playing golf and the number grows steadily. They play an average of 15 rounds a year on some 10,000 courses, keeping thousands employed in the cultivation of greens and fairways. Their expenditure for equipment, clothes, and fees runs into unmeasurable millions.

And so it goes. The U.S. department interior reports impressive increases in 19 different forms of outdoor, summertime recreation. Over all the participation of individuals in outdoor recreation from hiking to surfing, reached a fantastic 6.5 billion occasions in 1965. It is predicted this figure will jump to 10 billion in 1980 and 17 billion in the year 2000.

The biggest participating sport of all is just plain walking for pleasure. It is estimated that one-third of all Americans now take regular walks for health and recreation.

What was considered a dying sport is having a remarkable resurgence—tennis. It is one of the fastest growing sports. The estimated 3.5 million players spend $22 million a year on equipment.

Add to this the millions of skiing enthusiasts, ice-skaters, curlers, fishermen, horseback riders, campers, mountain climbers, swimmers, divers, hikers and so on and you get the idea that if anything ever happened to blight outdoor recreation the whole economy would be disrupted.

One conclusion is obvious: the continent is passionately devoted to getting some fun out of leisure time. There is more leisure time than ever before; and there is more money to spend enjoying it. And more and more participants are involved. The money they spend in turn has put recreation in the front line of contributions to business activity.

There used to be an old saying "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy". Now there seems to be abundant proof that lots of play makes lots of work—and lots of "jack".

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Stars Don't Change Ways But Gazers On Earth Do

TORONTO (CP) — On clear starry nights through the centuries, man has gazed into the heavens and tried to explain what he saw.

In the puff-bellied McLaughlin Planetarium that will open in October next door to the Royal Ontario Museum, visitors will discover the stars haven't changed for millions of years.

What has changed is the way men interpret the universe—the moon, the sun, comets, meteors and the Milky Way.

Dr. Henry C. King, curator of the planetarium, says: "It's not our job to point out what star that is. I don't give two hoots. Let's get down to fundamentals. How long have they been there?"

Who put them there? How long will they stay?

The planetarium, the sixth in Canada, financed by a $2,000,000 gift from Col. R. S. McLaughlin, chairman of General Motors of Canada Ltd., hopes to inform in an entertaining way.

Dr. King agrees with philosopher Bertrand Russell that most people have a "pre-Copernican" idea of the universe. Until the time of 15th-century Polish astronomer Copernicus, it was thought the universe was in layers with man at the centre.

"The subject is hardly mentioned in schools. And most people feel they can get through life without wondering what's going on up there."

You enter the planetarium from the street or the museum's mineralogy gallery. The lighting dims as you climb to the second floor to see photographs, models and three-dimensional art about stars and space.

By the time you reach the third floor and the 361-seat star theatre, the air is cool, the lights low.

The show starts with a night view of the Toronto skyline, complete with noises of the city. You'll see the moon, Venus, Mars and Saturn, the Big Dipper, the Milky Way.

A recorded voice will read an explanation of Copernicus' theory that the earth moved around the sun, centre of the universe.

Then comes a film about the sun, and a voice explaining it is only one star among many, in one of a multitude of galaxies.

WELL EQUIPPED

The 83-foot-high dome has an outer diameter of about 90 feet. It has an inner concrete shell, a layer of foamed urethane, an outer shell of concrete waterproofed with synthetic rubber.

Inside, the projection dome, 75 feet across, is made of aluminum, filled with tiny holes to circulate sound and cool filtered air.

The Planetarium has no observation deck for looking at the real stars. Instead the effect comes from about 40 slide and movie projectors, seven huge stereo speakers and speakers in every third seat bringing the voice of the lecturer.

Besides Dr. King, a there will be four full-time and four part-time lecturers whom he describes as "keen, young, mentally versatile, excited, not stiff academics."

Before coming to Canada in 1966, Dr. King was scientific director of the London Planetarium and president of the British Astronomical Association.

His enthusiasm for astronomy began at 13 when his father gave him a book about stars. Soon he was making his own small telescopes. Now he holds degrees in astronomy and mathematics and a doctorate in the history and philosophy of science.

William III Loses Battle

LONDON (CP)—King William III, triumphant in the Battle of the Boyne, has been losing out on another front—the picture postcard.

One of the historical personalities besting him in this distinctly 20th century battle is his predecessor as monarch of England, Henry VIII. Henry's ill-fated women do well, too.

The improvised competition among long-dead titans takes the form of sales at postcard counters in the sprawling and beautiful Hampton Court Palace near London.

The cards became an issue of verbal jousting in the Commons when a Conservative MP for an Ulster constituency, Sir Knox Cunningham, asked Works Minister Robert Mellish why one depicting William III is not available at Hampton Court.

"This card was withdrawn in 1966 because there was little demand for it," replied Mellish. Laughter roared through the House but Cunningham kept pressing the minister.

William, Britain's king from 1689 to 1702, is a hero to many northern Irishmen who cherish their ties with the United Kingdom.

At the Boyne in 1690, he defeated the Stuart, James II, who had led an uprising in Ireland.

Cunningham asked whether Mellish would reconsider the postcard matter "not solely on a commercial basis but on that of the glorious, noble and immortal memory of the great historical figure of William III."

"The most popular card at Hampton Court is that of Henry VIII and his wives, all six of them," replied Mellish as laughter again erupted.

"We are in this for commercial reasons."

"We have been selling only 700 cards a year of William III," said Mellish.

Soul-Searching Done Over 'Pill'

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Disregarding the historical antecedents of the Vatican's attitude on birth control and taking the Pope's encyclical at its face value is one should—it is impossible to miss the tone of anguished soul-searching in the document. The choice of the Latin words themselves illustrate intense spiritual struggle. This should be taken into account by those of us who think the Pope wrong on birth control.

His argument has two levels: one level is disciplinary and less worthy of consideration. The Pope worries lest removing the fear of conception will increase immorality and license. To this one could argue, even in terms of Catholic philosophy, that to have immoral desires is a sin if the only reason one does not indulge in them is fear. There are morally worthy means of combatting promiscuity than fear. In any case, this fear does not stop the least privileged groups of the Christian world—the Catholic poor of Latin America—from having the highest illegitimacy rate in the world.

The other and philosophical more compelling consideration from a Catholic viewpoint, is the belief that life is the most precious gift of God to man, a very special gift, transcending in importance all other gifts and therefore to be treated with total reverence.

If life is the gift of God, the encyclical argues, and cannot be given or taken away by man, scheme?

then to concede that man has the right to regulate birth by material means—means other than those God makes available by the rhythm of fecundity—is to concede that life itself is material; it is, as the Pope said, an "utterly materialistic conception of man himself and of his life."

You cannot, in other words, say the Pope, believe in a personal God who creates you and watches over you and tames with his creation of you or other human beings without committing a cardinal sin.

As against this argument, one must look at the statistics: with advances in medicine, the world population seems to be growing at a net rate of three per cent each year. It will reach approximately twelve billion people by the end of the century; it will exceed fifty billion by the year 2050, and the whole surface of the earth (not counting oceans and polar ice-caps) will be as crowded as London or New York are today, leaving no room for agriculture.

It may be argued that technology will enable us to disperse with agriculture and that we will produce all our food in factories underground. But food is not the only thing we need; we also need space. By the year 2077 the entire surface of the earth (not counting oceans and polar ice-caps) will be twice as crowded as London or New York; the population will be 115 billion approximately. Overcrowded laboratory animals so mad—we shall have none and long before 2077. Is that God's plan?

CANADA'S STORY

Pork And Beans War Raged Across Line

By BOB BOWMAN

Although Canada and the U.S.A. have not fought against each other since 1814, there was an unofficial scrap along the New Brunswick-Maine border in 1839. It was called "the war of pork and beans" because the combatants were lumberjacks, and their weapons were fists and axes.

The problem was that nobody knew where the boundary was, and rival lumber barons from New Brunswick and Maine were apt to be careless about where they did their cutting. The incidents were serious enough to cause the U.S. Congress to vote $10,000,000 for war, if necessary, while New Brunswick and Nova Scotia called out their militia.

Fortunately a truce was arranged, and then U.S. Secretary of State, Daniel Webster, who came from New Hampshire, urged Britain to negotiate a more satisfactory boundary. Baron Ashburton, a wealthy banker with an American wife, was sent to Washington for the purpose. Negotiations began in April and a boundary agreement was signed on Aug. 9, 1842, after a great deal of wine and dining with members of Congress.

The actual surveying began the following year and designated the boundary from the Atlantic coast to Rouses Point, south of Montreal. The surveyors often made their measurements by sighting gunpowder flashes. Timber would be cleared from the top of a hill, leaving one tall tree standing, but stripped of its branches. The gunpowder would be lifted to the top of the tree by a pulley and then exploded. The operation would be repeated at intervals of 10 minutes and enabled the surveyors to obtain readings for longitude.

Canada's Fishing Limits

(Victoria Times)

Since the last convention of maritime nations met some years ago to revise the law of the sea respecting territorial waters—and failed by a narrow voting margin to approve a 12-mile limit—Canada has set up, unilaterally, its own definition. This claims fisheries jurisdiction 12 miles from the coast. The actual lines, however, have not been fixed, except for a relatively small area around Newfoundland.

The reason the lines have not been drawn is attributed almost entirely to American opposition to the Canadian plan to use baselines established from headland to headland—a definition of limits which would place within Canadian jurisdiction valuable fisheries which heretofore have been accessible to American fishermen and others.

The difficulty in establishing the baselines provides interesting speculation on one recommendation emerging from an American Assembly on "Uses of the Sea" conducted among eminent United States figures in science, engineering, business, law, government and other fields at Columbia University last month.

"With respect to fishing in coastal zones," the Assembly found, "the United States should seek a new international agreement on territorial waters which would hold the boundary for exclusive fishing rights as close as possible to coast lines. An effort should be made to provide incentives for coastal nations to agree to limit their exclusive fishing rights to 12 miles."

This is an understandable proposal emanating from a conference of eminent Americans, particularly in view of problems fishermen of that country have encountered in South American waters, where seaboard nations are conventionally claiming jurisdiction up to 200 miles.

On the Pacific Coast, Canada seeks to ensure what is operative fishing interests consider a fair off-shore area for its own fishermen. This seems a modest claim in contrast to the areas sought by some South Americans—and imposed by them against foreigners including the United States. On the basis of the American Assembly's stand respecting a 12-mile limit, the United States should adopt a more conciliatory attitude to the Canadian plan before Canada finally decides to take unilateral action.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

A Common Trouble Can Kill Babies

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

Would you write something about Meckel's diverticulum? My baby grandson died from this. Other than throwing up pretty often in his first three months, he always seemed healthy. His doctor had no indication that anything was wrong.

He was operated on several hours after it burst, but it was too late. What chance would other babies have of being born with the same thing? Can it be diagnosed? —Mrs. B. K.

Meckel's diverticulum is a more common condition in babies than the public realizes, occurring in about two per cent of infants.

It is a blind pouch extending out from the small intestine, left of centre in the lower abdomen. Why does it exist? Because there is a duct in the fetus, before birth, leading from the yolk sac through the ileum, or small bowel.

Ordinarily this duct shrivels and closes after birth. But in one birth in 50, the duct — a part of it, that is — remains in the form of this pouch or diverticulum.

The tragedy of its rupturing, as in your grandchild, is not the usual outcome, and it can offer to you and the parents is my sympathy, which I am afraid is thin solace.

The condition can and does cause other consequences. The diverticulum, which shouldn't be there, becomes a ready site for ulceration. It can cause intestinal obstruction. In such cases, clearly, it is dangerous.

In spite of the fact that pediatricians are watchful, it is not always easy to detect, and when it does cause trouble, it mimics appendicitis. The fact that it is on the left, while appendicitis usually (but not always) causes symptoms on the right, can be a clue.

Trouble from Meckel's diverticulum, if there is to be trouble, usually makes its presence known in the first two years. If there is a discharge from the navel or blood in the infant's stool or signs of bowel obstruction or symptoms resembling appendicitis, Meckel's is one of the conditions that should be suspected.

Diagnosis is not easy, however, and even X-ray frequently does not disclose it because the opening into the diverticulum is so tiny. Indeed, such a diverticulum quite often is found only after surgical opening of the abdomen, one of the circumstances in which exploratory surgery may be necessary to find out positively what is causing symptoms.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that a growth I have is a Bartholin cyst. I am concerned as it is the size of an egg. Are these cysts usually malignant? And what is the difference between a cyst and a tumor? —MRS. P.K.

These cysts are not usually malignant, but they can be painful and therefore should be removed. A tumor is growth of tissue; it grows beyond normal size. A cyst, however, is a gland which has become plugged. As the gland continues to secrete material, the secretion is trapped inside the gland, and hence the gland swells or becomes a cyst.

Such a cyst can be opened to relieve the pressure; however, such cysts have a strong tendency to close again and the process is repeated. For that reason it is wise to remove the whole cyst rather than rely on lancing or puncturing it.

Genetic Defect Linked To Crime And Violence

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP)—New studies indicate that a genetic defect linked to crime and violence may be upwards of six times more common than previously thought.

Instead of affecting one man in 2,000, the abnormality may be present in one out of every 300, three prominent geneticists said Tuesday.

The defect involves the make-up of a man's chromosomes. 46 groupings of the genes which are the means for transmitting heredity. Normal women have sex chromosomes designated XX while normal men have sex chromosomes designated XY.

Men with the defect discussed at the seminar have an extra Y element in their sex chromosomes, which are designated XYY.

The XYY condition gained worldwide attention recently when Daniel Hugon, a French stablehand accused of murdering a prostitute, was found to have XYY chromosomes. His lawyers contended he was not responsible for his actions because of his genetic makeup.

There also has been speculation that Richard Speck, convicted of killing eight Chicago nurses, is XYY, but his case still is before the courts and the role of an XYY condition is not clear.

Men with the XYY condition characteristically are excessively tall, often six inches above normal. Many are dull mentally and often have acne. Their behavior varies from passivity to extreme aggressiveness.

SPOKE AT CONFERENCE

The three geneticists—Dr. Park S. Gould of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Malcolm Ferguson Smith of Glasgow University, and Dr. William J. Young of the University of Vermont—spoke at a conference being conducted at the Jackson Laboratory by Johns Hopkins University.

Their conclusions were based on a total of 3,700 consecutive births, half male and half female, in Canada; Edinburgh; New Haven, Conn.; and Pittsburgh, Pa. Six cases of the XYY syndrome were found among the male babies.

The one-in-300 incidence among men—women are not subject to the XYY syndrome—could prove "very worrisome" to society, Gerald said.

The panelists suggested that means of protecting XYY men may be needed and that new concepts may be needed for treating such men when accused of crimes.

A blood cell test that costs about $10 can detect an XYY defect.

The panelists recommended spot testing of newborns and follow-ups for 20 years to see what happens in the lives of XYY males.

GIFT PARTY FOLLOWS CROWNING CEREMONY

Tears, laughter and congratulations, highlighted the Gift Party held in the Kelowna Aquatic following the Lady of the Lake Crowning Ceremony Wednesday night. This picture of the new 1968 Lady of the Lake, Miss Legion, Marina

Maudrell; front right; her Lady in Waiting, Miss Lions, Val Paul, and the six contestants all proudly holding the lovely bouquets with which they had just been presented, may be the last picture of these eight lovely girls all together. Standing behind Marina and Val from the left are Miss Teen Town, Sue Barclay; Miss Rotary, Colleen Gordon; Miss Gyro, Dianne Wilson; Miss Kinsman, Liz Knox; Miss I.O.F., Kathy Goode, and Miss Kiwanis, Andria Fuller. It is not possible for everyone to win, but from the contestants' happy expressions it is clear that everyone was a winner this year. Congratulations to you all from the women of Kelowna. (Courier photo)

Trophies And Gifts Delight Royalty And Contestants

Following the lovely closing ceremony of the first evening show when Miss Legion, Marina Maudrell was crowned Lady of the Lake and Miss Lions, Val Paul, was crowned as her lady-in-waiting, the annual Gift Party was held in the Aquatic Ballroom.

Special guests at this affair were the contestants' parents, visiting royalty, Regatta chairman, Murray Joyce and Mrs. Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Preston.

Mrs. William Stevenson, who supervised the contestants this year, was master of ceremonies and was assisted by the past Lady of the Lake, Maria Crittenden, who is now Miss Kelowna, PNE contestant and who, with her past lady-in-waiting, Barbara A. Newton, received many special gifts.

To open the ceremony, Maria placed the Lady of the Lake banner on the tearful and happy Miss Maudrell, and the past lady-in-waiting, Barbara Newton, placed that banner on Val Paul.

Gifts from the retail merchants were then presented to all eight contestants by Hector Turvey on behalf of the retail merchants association.

Miss PNE contestant presented the two trophies to the Lady of the Lake and Murray Joyce then presented Maria and Barbara with engraved pins and thanked them for the excellent work they had done representing Kelowna during the past year.

Mr. Fletcher of Kelowna, Martinizing next presented the Lady of the Lake with a cleaning certificate for the year, and Miss Crittenden said how important she had found this gift during her reign, as the Lady of the Lake must have an extra large wardrobe kept spotlessly clean for all occasions.

Mrs. Stevenson then presented the balance of the gifts from the Kelowna merchants. All eight contestants received engraved silver bracelets, silver trays, theatre passes and boxes of chocolates, and special presents such as a Bulova watch were presented to the Lady of the Lake and her lady-in-waiting.

The party concluded with the candidates choice Miss Rotary, Colleen Gordon, being presented with the Miss Congeniality award by past Miss Congeniality, Betty Page.

"There's something about him I like . . . I think it's because he's a man."

ANN LANDERS

Don't Be Responsible For A Hideous Mess

Dear Ann Landers: The letter you printed from "Sadder But Wiser" compelled me to write this letter. She was the mousy little housewife who felt guilty about having an affair.

I'm a high school student who knows of a similar affair — my mother's. Mom always decided to see a very late movie "alone" when Dad is out of town. Once I asked how the movie was and she got so rattled I felt sorry for her. Recently I came home unexpectedly. (I had planned to spend the night at a girl friend's house and changed my mind.) I heard the back door slam as I came in and I smelled pipe tobacco all over the place.

This afternoon I needed 50c and Mom wasn't home. I looked in Mom's coat pockets for change. To my horror I discovered a key for a local hotel.

Do I owe it to my dad to tell him? If I don't tell and they get a divorce I will always feel as though I could have helped save their marriage if I had spoken out. —J. K. L.

Dear J. K. L.: Don't say a word. To anyone. While you may believe the evidence is conclusive, you could be wrong. And if you are wrong you would be responsible for stirring up a hideous mess.

Dear Ann Landers: We are an average family. By "average" I mean my husband and I are at the mercy of three lazy, uncooperative, smart-mouth kids.

Our daughters (ages 13 and 15) keep us broke. The 13-year-old, keeps us exhausted. My husband and I don't want to break their spirit or spoil their fun by being too demanding. I'm afraid, however, that we have been too lenient and now we can't get our kids to do anything that vaguely resembles work—either in or out of school.

Last week the kids suggested a "family jury" with each member of the family having one vote. Of course my husband and I always lose because the kids vote as a bloc. Can you help us teach these kids to be responsible citizens? —OUTVOTED

Dear Out: The majority rule is excellent for government, but it doesn't work well in mental institutions, prisons or families with two or more children. Adolescents not only need discipline but they want it. When children call the signals and run the family they get the impression their parents are imbeciles. Kids who do as they please are not happy — they are confused. The best way to keep your children's feet on the ground is to put some responsibility on their shoulders.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister Mazie and her husband have had dinner at our house every Friday for the last six years. This means they have enjoyed 312 free meals over here.

We have been to their home for dinner three times. (Once was when my brother-in-law's boss gave him a turkey for Christmas. Another time, my brother-in-law shot a duck. It was too gamy to eat. And once we had a Chinese dinner which they paid us to pick up on the way over.)

Last week an out-of-town aunt was having a serious operation and I offered to take care of her children. Mazie didn't invite my husband over for a single meal. This burned me up. I told my husband I'm through feeling them every Friday. He says Mazie will be mad because they have grown to expect it. How do I unwind a six-year habit? —THE CHIMP

Dear Chimp: Find something else to do a few Fridays in a row and announce it well in advance. When you do invite Mazie tell her, "It's your turn next time" and put your fingers on an alternating basis.

They Remember Papa Hemingway As Gentle, Drunk Or Sober . . .

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — "Drinking or sober, he always walked quietly into a room and sat in a quiet place," says Toby Bruce. "He was a kind man and a gentle man."

Bruce was speaking of Ernest Hemingway who died seven years ago. In Key West, where he lived and worked, some people still remember the writer as a giant in American literature.

"He could walk into a bar where no one knew him and before long there'd be eight guys around him talking about timber-cutting in Michigan or hunting in the Dakotas or fishing off the Keys," says Bruce. "He talked, like he wrote, in great detail."

"He was a man of many moods, an actor living his work," says Betty Brune. "One day very jovial and outgoing, another terribly sad. I'll never forget one of our visits to his home in Cuba. He talked on and on in the most depressing way."

"As it turned out later, he was talking line for line large sections of the book he was then writing, Across the River and into the Trees. I know the critics panned the book but someday, I'm sure, it will be recognized for what it was, a classic expression of the confusion and fright of a man losing his vitality as a man."

TOOK WORK SERIOUSLY

The Bruces knew Hemingway in his Key West days and the days that followed in Cuba and Idaho. Toby Bruce, a short, thin, reserved man, now runs an appliance store. In other days, he drank and fished with Hemingway, looked after his boat, the Pilar, his cars and the odd jobs that needed doing to the house.

"There were no drinking bouts when he was working," Toby Bruce recalls. "He took his work very seriously."

"A bad day was when he wrote 320 words. A good day was 750. He wouldn't push it after several bad days. He'd just chop it off and go fishing."

Hemingway, Bruce says, was proud of what he called his filing system. That consisted of clipping papers and correspondence to each other or a laundry slip and filing them on an unused bed of his work room. When the pile grew too formidable, Hemingway put a fresh sheet over the whole mound and started anew.

There are people like the Bruces in Key West who knew Hemingway and do not visit the house where he lived. They prefer their memories.

These memories are mostly of the 1930s. Earlier, in his younger days, Hemingway served both as a reporter and as a foreign correspondent in Paris. For several years up to 1923, he worked in both capacities for the Toronto Star.

OFFER SOUVENIRS

But the curious can tour the house for $1.

The facts are few, but the tour buzzes right along, up to the second floor studio where Hemingway worked in the little house near the pool. Here, the guide tells the folks that Hemingway wrote at the round little Spanish table, sitting on a "cigar-maker's chair brought from Cuba," and that the room still looks as it was, except, "of course, when he was here it was so full of junk you had to fight your way in."

The tour ends back in the living room of the main house where the folks get all the time they need to buy souvenirs. Among other things, they can get bricks from "Mr.

Hemingway's yards for 50 cents plus tax," tiles from the garage for $2 plus tax, ash trays, nail clippers, paper-back books, wallets, spoons, T-shirts and, for 50 cents, whisky shot glasses, all with The Hemingway Home stamped on them.

This is the house, in graceful Spanish colonial design, where Hemingway wrote part or all of For Whom the Bell Tolls, To Have and Have Not, The Green Hills of Africa, The Snows of Kilimanjaro and The Macomber Affair.

He owned it until his death in 1961 after which it was sold by his estate.

Hogan's Heroes Almost Victors In Presenting Controversial Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hogan's Heroes has faced—and apparently conquered—the problem of presenting on television a war-time comedy at a time when the United States is torn by war and anti-war feelings.

Not that the conquest is complete; the CBS series still draws occasional knocks from critics who claim that a prisoner-of-war camp run by Germans during the Second World War is not suitable for comedy.

But Hogan's Heroes will be returning for a fourth season next fall.

Bob Crane, who is Hogan, has his own theories why the show has survived against long odds and the barbs of critics:

"I think if we tried to come on the air now, we wouldn't have a chance with Hogan's Heroes, the times would be against it."

"Three years ago, the timing was just right. The Second World War—in fact, the Korean War, too—had been over long enough so people could laugh about some of the things that happened during the war."

"By now the characters are well established and accepted, and we have licked most of the criticism that a German prisoner-of-war camp is not a fit subject for comedy—assassinations, plane crashes and a few other matters that offer definite taboos."

"But nearly everything else

A New Library Set In Aussie

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Australia's collection of books, manuscripts and historical documents soon will be moved out of their temporary homes in a hospital mortuary, disused laundries and damp basements into a new national library.

Prime Minister Gorton opens the $8,000,000 library Aug. 15. But its newness will not show because 30 tons of bronze used in its construction was pre-oxidized to give it an aged appearance.

The nation's library collection was brought to the capital of Canberra from Melbourne in 1927.

The collection includes one of the three original drafts of Magna Carta, the document sealed by King John in 1215 guaranteeing fundamental principles of government.

Sydney architect Walter Bunning went overseas to inspect 57 libraries and then drew up 18 plans, the last of which was accepted by the Canberra authorities.

Now, with the help of a special act of Parliament, the blueprint has been turned into a handsome, marble-clad reality, classical in design, modern in purpose, its 44 columns reflected in Canberra's man-made Lake Burley Griffin.

The three-building group eventually will hold 11,000,000 books, almost twice as many as the British museum.

The library is edged by a colonnade of 44 sweeping columns of white marble 70 feet high. Its creamy marble facings are striped with black granite, its roof is copper sheathed.

can be treated in a comic manner.

"Oh, I've had people ask me, 'How can you make fun of a concentration camp? Think of all the Jews that were killed.'"

"Well, ours isn't a concentration camp; it's a camp filled with soldiers who are prisoners. And their situations can be funny."

DEFENDS CHARACTERS

Another criticism has been the portrayal of the German captors.

Crane's defence: "Schultz (the comedy character played by John Banner) is neither stupid nor a traitor. He simply says: 'I see nothing; I know nothing.' He is a type that appears to have been common in Nazi Germany."

"The camp commandant, played by Werner Klemperer, isn't stupid, either. He is an egomaniac, the kind of man who can be fooled when he is buttered up, which is what I do to him. But then we also need two or three regular bad guys to present the element of danger. These are the brutal, Nazi types who are our villains."

Crane believes his own role is crucial to the believability of the series. Although he is a funnymen in other mediums, he plays Hogan fairly straight.

"I keep a close eye on the character, and if anything doesn't sound right in the script, I speak up about it. Series can be badly damaged when characterizations get out of hand."

Meaning Of Life 'Serenity' Explains Walter Cronkite

NEW YORK (AP)—If you ask him what the meaning of life is in one word, he replies after a thoughtful pause: "Serenity."

Perhaps this is a major reason why Walter Cronkite of CBS-TV, whose job is to tell the news, good or bad, is one of the most widely welcomed faces in the living room.

No matter how bad the word may be, Walter tells viewers what has happened in a manner neither shrill nor pontifical, but serious, calm-voiced and friendly.

Walter is getting set for the United States political conventions in August. As wheel-horse for his network, which expects to spend about $10,000,000 covering the candidate nomination sessions of the two major parties for the November presidential election, Cronkite takes the precautions of an athlete in getting into shape.

"I go on a low-residue diet, a trick I learned from the astronauts," he said, "and I put aside the pipe I usually have at hand all day. Smoking can dry out your throat if you may have to face up to an 18-hour day at the microphone."

He also spends long evening hours at home conscientiously boning up on the backgrounds of the issues and the personalities of the candidates.

"If you're going to do a responsible job, you have to do your homework first."

STANDS PRESSURE

During 18 years he has spent more than 3,000 hours on the air. One of the most-often-asked questions within an industry whose greatest mortality comes from the pressure it exacts is: "How does Walter hold up under it?"

Speaking of what he calls "the stress periods," such as the two upcoming conventions, he said:

"As a newsman with a press agency before I went into this line of work, I was already pretty well adjusted to pressure."

"Another thing that helps, I suppose, is that I simply try my best to do a good job rather than try to compete with another guy. I have never felt a personal compulsion to succeed. I don't think this is the end-all of existence. I could be happy doing other things."

"I know all the great actors and actresses say they have butterflies in the stomach before every performance, but I don't feel nervous before a broadcast. Perhaps it is because I don't particularly think of myself as a performer."

"I don't think of the millions who are watching or listening. In giving each news item I always have in mind somebody who would be particularly interested in having it explained—whether that individual might be a professor, a child, a government official, or a housewife."

Perhaps the real key to Walter's fabulous calm, however, is his reasoned philosophy of living.

"You have to try to achieve serenity in the middle of the vortex of this life," he said. "To achieve it you try to do your best in any situation, make peace with your fellow man, and realize your own limitations."

"Most of all, however, I feel that you must make a compromise with ambition. We all have some kind of a drive to succeed, no matter how we measure success, but keeping that drive under control is the chief key to serenity." For successfully keeping his own cool, Walter earns $200,000 or more yearly—enough to make anybody nervous.

PARAMOUNT
A FAMOUS PLAYERS THEATRE

Busy, Busy In Theatre

TORONTO (CP) — If you're not an actor or a designer, but you're theatre smitten, be good at business, and you can keep as busy in the theatre as you want.

Anne Barr says that's been her experience, though no one told her about it. She found out by accident.

Miss Barr moved from Windsor, Ont., to London, England, and was working as staff advisor for a retail firm when she was offered a job as manager of the Drury Lane Theatre.

"Somebody offered me a business job, and it happened to be in the theatre. Had I not been oriented by interest and by having most of my friends in the theatre, I might not have been able to cope. Someone once remarked to me that it's a business of interruptions."

"And though I am in the business end, I have the utmost regard for the artistic. I'm still star struck."

She says managing a theatre in England is a different proposition from a similar job in Canada.

COUNT BAR PROFITS

"In England, a theatre is a piece of real estate. When you make up the accounts you add up income from the chocolates and tea, the 13 bars and last night's party, and right at the bottom, from the box office."

"It's almost a form of subsidized theatre, although you don't attract people to your 13 bars unless you have a hit."

"Here a business is just for the putting on of a production. I'm always amazed at businessmen looking at a building and leaving it empty most of the time."

Donkey Nemesis A Quack Doctor

MANAGUA (Reuters) — Ni-caraguan farmers are complaining their donkeys are being slaughtered by marauders following a quack doctor's statement that drinking donkey's blood could cure cancer, the newspaper La Frensa reports.

Gang Loots Art From English Homes

LONDON (AP) — Art experts disclosed in London a gang of thieves has raided private homes in England, stealing Dutch and Flemish master paintings valued at £2,000,000 ($5,200,000) during the last year.

Fewer Crank Maritimers Likely When CBC News Starts Earlier

HALIFAX (CP) — Easterners who stay up to watch the late television news can start getting an extra hour's sleep this fall.

The extra sleep could mean fewer cranky Maritimers and, who knows, perhaps fewer complaints to Ottawa from allegedly underprivileged citizens of the Atlantic provinces.

In the 14 years since television reached this region it is estimated that each TV news watcher has lost an average of 4,200 hours sleep staying up for the midnight editions on both CBC and CTV networks. That's midnight Atlantic time and 12:30 a.m. Newfoundland time. In the rest of the country it's only 11 p.m. or earlier.

The breakthrough came when CBC announced that starting next fall the midnight TV news here will become the 11 p.m. news, thanks to revised schedules.

The only people who may not like the idea are power company officials. If Maritimers go to bed earlier they are not likely to keep the lights and appliances going so late.

Viewers in central Canada's Eastern time zone have seen the end of the news and can head for bed before 11:30, while down in the Atlantic provinces the Maritimers are just watching the climax of Felony Squad, with the news more than half an hour away.

MAY USE VIDEOTAPE
The CBC says it hopes to overcome the problems by the use of videotape. The network says that by pre-taping most shows before they are televised, they can be released in Halifax an hour earlier than in central Canada. Thus a show scheduled for 10 p.m. in Toronto would be seen an hour earlier in Halifax, when their clocks also are at 10.

Beginning Sept. 15, the CBC National News will be produced live in Toronto for transmission via closed-circuit microwave to Halifax where it will be televised to viewers in the four Atlantic provinces at 11 p.m. ADT. A second edition will be transmitted from Toronto one hour later for viewing in central Canada.

The new scheduling will be in effect Sunday to Friday. The Saturday schedule of major sports events — which have to be carried live — forces its exclusion from the new system.

Although a relatively minor change in network scheduling, it could have a major effect on life in the East.

The Nova Scotia Light and Power Co. says the amount of power used drops drastically just after midnight when people start heading for bed. It doesn't pick up again until about 6 a.m.

A company spokesman said the time the drop occurs corresponds to news ends.

Canadian Accent Heard In Europe

PARIS (Reuters)—There is a new voice on the popular music radio station based in Paris—Europe number one—and you can easily pick it out by its soft Canadian accent.

Michel Desrochers, 23 and a bachelor, was a radio disc jockey in Montreal for five years and has just arrived in Paris to take the afternoon spot on Europe number one.

"I have a light accent and I will have to watch my pronunciation," Michel said. He also said he would have to stop using French phrases common in Canada but unknown in France.

Michel intends making Canadian artists better known in Europe—artists such as Felix Leclerc, Donald Lautree, and Jean-Pierre Ferland.

He started his career in radio at 16 years of age, "and I adore it," he said. He decided to leave Canada, because, in his own words, "at my age you can change your life."

Book Corner

LONDON (Reuters) — Midshipman Peter Heywood was only 15 when he crouched terrified on board HMS Bounty as his cutlass-wielding shipmates seized command.

His eyewitness account of history's most notorious mutiny at sea was made public here 179 years later, for the first time.

The 18th century sea drama unfolded again at Sotheby's auction rooms as unpublished letters from Peter to his mother were snapped up by a buyer for £1,025 ($2,665).

Buyer and seller were not identified.

"I saw the captain . . . with his hands tied behind his back and Mr. Christian alongside him with a pistol and a drawn bayonet," wrote the young apprentice officer.

First Mate Fletcher Christian led the mutiny against the tyrannical Capt. William Bligh aboard the ship on a voyage from Tahiti to Britain in 1789.

CAST ADRIFT

Bligh and loyal crew members were cast adrift in a lifeboat which eventually reached England. The mutineers sailed the bounty to Pitcairn Island where they founded a community.

Peter's vivid account: "The morning the ship was taken . . . I saw a man sitting upon the arms chest in the main hatchway with a drawn cutlass in his hand.

"He told me Mr. Christian had taken the ship and put the captain in confinement and had taken command himself . . . and was going to take him home to be tried for his long and tyrannical and oppressive behavior.

"I was quite thunderstruck. . .

"The captain was to be sent ashore to Tofua in the launch and those who would not join Christian might either accompany him or be taken in irons."

Peter decided to join Bligh but there was no room in the lifeboat so he was put ashore on Tahiti with some other crew members.

Bligh, unaware of the youngster's loyalty, wrote to Peter's distressed mother later: "Your son—his baseness is beyond all description."

In a letter to the boy's uncle—also sold Friday—Bligh wrote: "Your nephew is among the mutineers, his ingratitude to me is of the blackest dye."

Meanwhile, Peter, with some of the mutineers, was captured by a British vessel, put in irons and shipped back to England for trial.

During the terrifying journey back—the prisoners were starved and later shipwrecked—Peter wrote to his mother: "From your ill-fated son whose conduct has been so grossly misrepresented to you by Captain Bligh."

Peter was sentenced to death at the age of 19, but was saved from the gallows by a royal pardon. He later became a Royal Navy commander.

The 118 letters sold Friday were believed to have been transcribed by Peter's family to aid his defence. Exhaustive searches failed to uncover the originals.

CBC Dispute Given Airing

MONTREAL (CP) — A management-employee committee investigating a three-day news blackout on the CBC's Frenchlanguage network in June has completed its work and turned in a report to CBC Vice-President Laurent Picard, it was learned Wednesday.

A CBC spokesman said the report is of an internal nature and recommends no sanctions against Claude-Jean Devirieux, the television reporter who was suspended from election coverage duties June 25 for alleged bias in his reporting of St. Jean Baptiste Day violence the previous night.

Mr. Devirieux' radio and television news colleagues walked out in protest against his suspension. Regular news broadcasts resumed three days later when the investigating committee was set up.

Czech Equipment For Canadian Show

VANCOUVER (CP) — When the British Columbia story is shown at Osaka 70 in Japan, it will be a Czechoslovakian film shot with Czech-designed equipment.

The announcement was made Tuesday by John Cunningham, the industrial designer who will represent the consortium building the $1,500,000 pavilion.

He said the Czech bid to produce the audio-visual presentation at the pavilion was the best because "they underbid in terms of dollars and overbid in terms of talent."

Facilities and film-makers from Toronto, Vancouver, Montreal, Japan and the United States were also considered, he said.

The script for the film has been written by Victoria newspaperman Ian Street.

KELOWNA SKIERS SMILE AFTER VICTORY

Two Kelowna youngsters finished first and second in the water slalom Thursday at the Pacific Northwest Skiing Championships being held on Okanagan Lake. Rick Hirtle, 17, left, finished in first spot while Bill Wilson, 16, right, took second-place honors. The skiers were the only Kelowna entries in the event, making their feat even more amazing. AT NORTHWEST CHAMPIONSHIPS

Local Skiers Do Well

The Pacific Northwest Water Skiing Championships are being staged in a different place this year—and early indications showed the move was an overwhelming success.

The championships are being held at the ferry slip near the old Rotary beach across Okanagan Lake. They were formerly held on the opposite side of the bridge near Casa Loma.

The new spot was literally a "bee-hive" of activity Thursday. The bee-hive was an accident, donated by hundreds of wags, who, by virtue of being the original inhabitants of the area, were swarming around the skiers and the temporary refreshment stand in the area.

The skiing championships are particularly important to B.C. competitors who are vying for a spot on the B.C. team that will compete in the national championships in Toronto later this month.

Results showed many Kelowna skiers in good contending spots to make the team. Rick Hirtle, 17, and Bill Wilson, 16, were typical of the success being enjoyed by the Kelowna contingent. They finished one-two in the boys' water slalom at the championships Thursday.

They were the only Kelowna entries in the slalom competition.

Thursday's results:

Fish Derbies Getting Large

By JIM TREADGOLD

THE CONTINUED HOT sunny weather has had a slowing effect on the trout fishing during the middle of the day.

In general, fishing is slower but some lakes are producing well in the evenings. On windy days earlier in the week, the temperature was quite cool at a number of the mountain lakes.

Okanagan Lake is still producing a considerable number of Kokanee, even during the hot days when six to eight ounces of weight are needed to get down to the biggest Kokanee.

Mrs. Dorothy Barlee of Okanagan Mission caught a 10-pound trout in front of her home last weekend. She was fishing for Kokanee with a small lure shaped like a minnow, and was using four ounces of lead. I would say it took good handling of such a prime fighting trout, to keep it on such a small hook, as that fish danced all over Okanagan Mission Bay.

There are still a number of anglers fishing the mountain lakes. Beaver Lake has been fair at times. The Dee chain slow during the day but evening fly fishing is good. Bear Lake has been fair to good and getting quite a lot of activity. Pennask has been holding up quite well, with many limit catches being taken. It was quite windy there at times during the week and it was necessary to fish the quiet inlets.

The last four miles of road to Pennask are still rough, but cars are going in in numbers. Best lures there have been the Spratley fly, the golden pheasant fly and flatfish. Oyama Lake has been slow during the day but good most evenings right up to and after dark.

Jimmie Lake has slowed down a little but limit catches were reported last weekend. The Spratley fly on a sinking line has been one of the best lures here.

BROWNE LAKE reports are much slower and this can be expected as this has always been noted as a moody lake. One report in from Mission Lake in the Graystones says all fish taken were small. It had been reported that there were big fish in this lake, but this is doubtful.

The spring salmon are in Shuswap River, with a few being taken last weekend below the falls out of Lumby. The kids are fishing from the bridge at Enderby which is always a sure sign that the salmon are in the river.

Best lures on the springs are fresh roe, preserved roe, and large wobblers. The first run of these big fish are always in good condition, and put up a good fight in the fast water. Fairly heavy tackle is necessary and the large spinning reels are the most popular reel, used on the two-handed spin rod.

There will be a lot of anglers on this river over the next month, with the experienced on the river at daylight as early morning is the best time.

Other changes in the new fishing regulations than were noted last week are: Beaver, Dee Lakes and Pennask will be closed for ice-fishing. These are all lakes used in the egg collection program for the hatcheries.

All streams in the Okanagan watershed except Okanagan River will be closed for fishing from March 15 to June 30. This is to allow the trout to spawn unhindered in the streams, and is a regulation that will please fish and game clubs in the Valley, who have favored this move for some time.

No fish or fish product other than roe may be used or possessed as bait. This measure is not new and is designed to stop the introduction of coarse fish into our trout lakes.

THE LIMIT is reduced to 10 per day with a three-day possession limit except on Pennask Lake where a two-day possession limit prevails.

The hunting regulations have not been issued as yet but are expected shortly. Seasons open in the northern part of the province around Aug. 15 and the deer season opens in the Carli-Beaverdell area on Aug. 31.

Game tags and the new licences are available now. Some tag fees are up in price. The B.C. Salmon Derby which takes place out of Vancouver on Aug. 31 to Sept. 2 is creating considerable nows with $25,000 first prize and $50,000 in total prizes. It is expected thousands of anglers from all over the province will enter. I have received a supply of registration forms. Entry fee is $10.00.

I expect we will hear a lot of controversy over these big derbies in the near future.

The fishery biologists and the international salmon people are keeping a close watch on events as it is felt by many that such large derbies can harm the resource and are perhaps not in the best interests of sport fishing. With such large prizes offered, fraud could easily take place as it did at last year's salmon derby.

The Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club is raffling a large boat, motor and trailer with the proceeds to be used to build an indoor small rifle range, and for use in junior sportsman training. This project has the consent of the A.G. and all sportsmen are asked to support this drive as an indoor range is needed badly in this area, and will get extensive use when erected.

CATCH LIMIT in the Okanagan is now 10 daily, possession 30.

Gear Restriction says no fish or fish product other than roe may be used or possessed for bait. This is not a new regulation but is not generally known by the anglers. There will be a closure of Beaver Lake and Dee Lakes from Jan. 1 to April 30. This means no ice fishing in these lakes. (There is no definition on the meaning of Dee Lakes).

All streams in the Okanagan watershed except the Okanagan River will be closed for fishing from March 15 to June 30. This regulation is long overdue and will be welcomed by the Fish and Game Clubs in the area. It will allow better reproduction in the streams tributary to Okanagan Lake.

The Shuswap River will be closed for Salmon Fishing on Sept. 15 to Oct. 31.

Pennask Lake is in the Kamloops Region—where the limit is 10 per day with 20 possession limit. Pennask also will be closed for ice fishing as are all other lakes that are used in the collection of trout eggs for the hatchery program. However Pennask has not been declared a "fly fishing lake only"—as was expected.

These are a few of the changes in the sport world. As the regulations were just received today, I have not had time to study them closely so will report more fully next week.

Mercedes-Benz announces the "over-engineered" car.

An automotive expert who previewed the new Mercedes-Benz models said they were "over-engineered."

He's right. And Mercedes-Benz is proud of it. By most standards the new Mercedes-Benz models—like the new 250 in our picture—are "over-engineered." They're built to far more exacting standards than conventional cars.

For example: Standard equipment includes 4-wheel disc brakes, because tests prove you get more precise braking than with conventional drum-type brakes.

Mercedes-Benz eliminated the squeaks and rattles of loose body bolts by eliminating body bolts. Instead, the "unitized" body chassis is welded together at 10,000 points.

The engineers specified fully independent suspension because ordinary "beam" axles had to be too softly sprung for good road-holding.

These new cars bristle with "over-engineered" features like these; features that make every Mercedes-Benz a pleasure to drive and a sensible car to own. Wouldn't you rather spend your money on engineering than status?

You owe it to yourself to look into one of the new cars from Mercedes-Benz. They're on display in our showroom now. Come in for a demonstration drive today.

Critic Of Warsaw Pact Structure Chosen By Rebel Czech Reds

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Three Prague Communist party organizations—defying the ruling of their own party presidium leaders—have nominated controversial army leader Lt. Gen. Vaclav Pechlik as a candidate to the central committee of the Czechoslovak party, it was learned today.

The new central committee of the Czechoslovak party will be elected by more than 2,000 delegates to the party congress Sept. 9.

Pechlik was dismissed from the crucial party post which controls liaison with the army and the security forces 48 hours before the Czechoslovak leaders travelled to the little border town of Cierna Nad Tisou for their policy confrontation with the Soviet leaders.

He previously criticized the Warsaw pact structure and indirectly confirmed the continued presence of a considerable force of Soviet troops in the country—unauthorized by the Prague authorities.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠Q8743 ♥AKQ6 ♦A5 ♣J4
2. ♠AKJ6 ♥A7 ♦83 ♣J8542
3. ♠5 ♥AQJ84 ♦AJ8763 ♣A
4. ♠AK43 ♥854 ♦AJ83 ♣762
5. ♠Q8 ♥AKS ♦87642 ♣AJ9

1. One spade. This follows the general rule of bidding the longer suit first. There is no good reason to vary from the rule just because the hearts are better in quality. The length of the suit is the determining factor. The hearts can be shown later if the opportunity arises.

2. It would be wrong to open with a notrump, though it is true you have 16 high-card points and balanced distribution. The weakness in the minor suits, as well as the promise of a major suit game, militate against an opening notrump bid.

3. One club. Here, also, the longer suit is bid first. The club opening makes it possible to bid the spades secondarily and obtain the advantage of identifying them as only four cards in length. This precise information will often enable partner to steer the hand to the best contract.

4. One heart. An exception is made in this case by opening with a heart even though the diamonds are longer. The chief reason for this is that we are dealing with suits of 6-5 length rather than 5-4 length. When the high-card content of a hand is close to minimum, it is better to start with the higher-ranking suit even though it is the shorter one.

5. This is especially true when one suit is a major and the other is a minor. Since it is generally easier to make a major-suit game than a minor-suit game, the initial effort is directed to the major suit.

Change the spade five to the ace, thus adding 4 high-card points to the hand, and it becomes proper to bid one diamond.

4. Pass. There is simply no adequate bid available. To open with a spade and then be faced with the responsibility of finding a proper rebid over partner's forcing response of two clubs, diamonds or hearts is begging for serious trouble. You could not possibly find a rebid that would express your values correctly. A pass is therefore the best course of action.

5. One diamond. Hands containing 14 high-card points are mandatory opening bids. This right rule overrides the natural reluctance to open the bidding with a suit headed by the eight. There is no good reason to bid the three-card club suit, and there is even less reason to open with a notrump, which would show 16 to 18 high-card points.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Saturday's stellar influences suggest caution in all matters. Be especially careful in financial transactions and do not exceed your budget by yielding to extravagant whims. During the P.M., avoid needless arguments.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart promises some pleasing developments in both your personal and business life during the coming year. Start making plans for taking advantage of fine opportunities immediately available—where both career and monetary interests are concerned—since excellent rewards for your efforts are star-promised between now and October 31st. Gains indicated on both of the aforementioned fronts should fire even loftier ambitions, and serve as a springboard to further advances in early January, late February, during the latter parts of March and May and throughout next June. Don't offset gains, however, by engaging in speculation in late September or in October, or by indulging in extravagant whims during the latter half of December or the first two weeks of April. Rather, retrench a bit during those periods, since you may be faced with some unexpected expenses.

Look for happy personal relationships throughout most of the next 12 months, with strong emphasis on romance during October (an all-around good period for all zodiacs); also next April and June. Most propitious cycles for travel and for making invaluable contacts through social activities: October, January, April, May and June.

A child born on this day will be endowed with the qualities required to succeed as a lawyer, scientist or dramatist, depending upon his leanings and education.

American Nazi Party Makes Change In Image

WASHINGTON (AP) — One year after the assassination of its founder—George Lincoln Rockwell—the American Nazi party, its name changed, appears outwardly more prosperous, more sophisticated. But its private papers disclose that several factions are competing for control of the tiny movement.

What apparently is the principal Nazi organization—now known as the National Socialist White Peoples party—has bought a two-story building in a quiet middle-class neighborhood in suburban Arlington, Va. There, in a second-floor office, Matthias Koehl Jr., 23, presides as national leader. Koehl rules a tiny band of armed racists and anti-Semites.

"I was born a racist," Koehl told an interviewer. "I never could see the sense of mixing of blacks and whites."

"It's highly indecent. I've always believed in the establishment of an all-white America."

ACTIVITIES CHANGED But while the basic aims of the Nazis haven't changed, their activities have. They've largely stopped publicly-seeking antics such as the demonstration in 1965 when a Rockwell trooper put on black-face minstrel garb, slipped past guards and made a dramatic entrance in the House of Representatives to protest civil rights legislation.

And they've turned to the telephone for what Koehl calls the "white power message."

One such message, opposing the elevation of Associate Justice Abe Fortas to chief justice, called him "a Red Jew—an utterly despicable one."

Koehl publicly denies that there are any splits or factions in the party, but one recent issue of the NS Bulletin, the party's official internal publication, contained pleas to "back party unity... reject splintering."

A key splinter group with headquarters in the Los Angeles area calls itself the American Nazi party. Its publication, Attack!, signed by "Capt. George Carpenter, national secretary," says that since Rockwell's death, the Nazi movement "has no real leader."

"All white men in America are waiting for a man of the quality of Adolf Hitler to make himself known and lead the white race to victory," it said.

Mr. Koehl said he has already taken steps to back up his threat to leave B.C. He said he has government approval to sell his beer in the Yukon and Northwest Territories, as well as Alberta and Manitoba where he plans to build two more breweries.

Mr. Ginter said he has decided to turn some of his heavy construction assets free for other investments because much of the major roadbuilding in B.C. is now over.

The Prince George millionaire also said he won't have much trouble selling his other property.

"I'm going to give up the construction business and get out of this damned province," he said.

Sub-Titles In English Help Deaf People To Enjoy Show

TORONTO (CP) — English subtitles added to English movies.

This spring the National Film Board along with the department of manpower and immigration spent about $5,000 to buy films from the United States that fit that description.

The movies will be loaned free by the 42 NFB offices across Canada upon request to the 13 leading schools for the deaf across the country.

"Our aim is to assist not only the totally deaf, but also the 350,000 Canadians with partial or marginal hearing," NFB distribution officer Allan Palmer said.

Mr. Palmer flew to Washington with members of the immigration department and members of the Canadian Hearing Society and screened nearly 500 films.

They bought 25 which included Our Man in Havana, The Last Angry Man, The Mouse that Roared and several documentaries.

"Our selection was necessarily limited by budget," Mr. Palmer said. "But we tried to choose movies having intelligent, adult dialogue which still could be understood and enjoyed by deaf children."

Three Metropolitan Toronto policemen and one RCMP officer are believed victims of the disease.

The disclosure came Thursday after tests at Women's College Hospital, where some 15 persons are in isolation wards. A hospital spokesman said the hospital no longer has any isolation beds available.

The disease can be fatal if untreated.

Two constables, regulars of the midtown coffee-house district patrol, were diagnosed Wednesday as having the disease.

Tests Thursday also indicated that more than 60 other youthful visitors to Yorkville may have the disease. Families of policemen believed to have the disease were to undergo tests.

TEAMS MOVE IN Volunteer medical teams moved into the area last Friday.

Dr. A. F. J. Boyd, city medical health officer, at first said all cases were serum hepatitis. However Wednesday he said it is no longer possible to disregard the presence of infectious hepatitis in the area.

Those in hospital wards include Suzanne DePoe, 22, daughter of CBC commentator Norman DePoe, and Nancy Dymond, 18, daughter of Ontario Health Minister Matthew Dymond.

There were also reports of hepatitis in St. Catharines and London, Ont. Youth workers in St. Catharines reported eight young persons had been taken to hospital with serum hepatitis, and one worker said victims had all used the same needle for drug injections.

Serum hepatitis is believed to have been caused in Toronto by contaminated hypodermic needles. Dr. Boyd has said a toxic reaction to drugs or chemicals may also have been a cause.

A blood sampling station operated by Women's College Hospital continued testing Thursday night in Yorkville. More than 600 blood samples already have been taken.

Hepatitis, with a two-to-six week incubation period, turns eyes and skin yellow in its advanced stages and induces general weakness.

Hepatitis Threat Grows

TORONTO (CP) — Tests indicate that four more policemen have contracted hepatitis in the hippie Yorkville district where medical teams are trying to check the rapid spread of the liver disease. About 100 are believed infected.

Three Metropolitan Toronto policemen and one RCMP officer are believed victims of the disease.

The disclosure came Thursday after tests at Women's College Hospital, where some 15 persons are in isolation wards. A hospital spokesman said the hospital no longer has any isolation beds available.

Former Champ Defeated In Canadian Golf Play

EDMONTON (CP) — A late drive fell short Thursday giving Calgary's Keith Alexander a 2-up decision over defending champion Stuart Jones of Hastings, N.Z., in a first-round match in the Canadian amateur golf championships. Down three with five holes to go, Jones started his charge on 14 with a birdie putt of 15 feet to narrow the margin. He ran in another birdie on 17 and stood on the 18th tee trailing by one.

But both were on the green and three feet from the pin in three, and a half was no good to Jones. And he failed in that when he pulled his little putt. The match was the highlight of the first round of match play at the tournament because both players are veterans of international competition. Jones, six-time New Zealand amateur champion, has played on 13 international teams for his country. Alexander, who won

Bombers Hurting

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet the awe-inspiring attack of Calgary Stampeders Sunday with a mauled defence and no one is more aware of that than Bombers general manager Earl Lunsford. "It looks like the air will be filled with footballs and we have to shore up our secondary," Lunsford, whose Bombers are winless in two starts, said in an interview Thursday.

On the other side of the fence, Calgary coach Gerry Williams agrees, in part. He said he still has confidence in the passing of Peter Liske and the receiving of Terry Evensen, and indicated the game plan calls for much passing.

But he said he is "just interested in scoring points and if we can't score points one way we will try another."

He said the Bombers pass defence was beginning to jell and may force some ground game by the Stamps.

TWO MEN LOST Lunsford may read that evaluation as a bit of dry humor, especially since Bombers have lost two vital cogs in the defensive machine.

Defensive back Ernie Pitts will sit the game out with torn rib cartilage, and Roger Hamelin, defensive tackle, is out for the season with a broken ankle.

One ray of hope for the rookie-laden Bombers is the possible return of Sherwyn Thorson, who injured his knee in the exhibition schedule and was waived through the league.

If Thorson does return to his offensive guard slot, the man presently occupying the spot, Fred Levinsky, may move over as linebacker, allowing Phil Minnick to bolster the defensive line at an end spot.

Encouraging News Arrives In Montreal Baseball Bid

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal got encouraging news on the baseball situation here Thursday night when it was announced the city has reached an agreement on the site of a temporary stadium with sponsors of the proposed National League team.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau emerged from a four-hour meeting with sponsors, city officials and a high-ranking baseball representative and issued a brief one-minute statement to waiting reporters.

"After many hours of meetings I am pleased to inform everyone that we have succeeded in reaching a formula of agreement feasible to both parties," the mayor said.

He said the agreement "implies the use of Jarry Park stadium," a huge city-owned and operated park.

"The city will bring the stadium up to National League standards," Mayor Drapeau said in his hand-written statement.

DETAILS LATER He closed his brief statement by saying that further information will be made public "during the coming week."

Before making his speech, the mayor insisted that neither he nor anyone connected with Thursday night's meeting be asked any questions following his statement.

Sitting in on Thursday's meeting along with the mayor were Georges Mantha, director of Montreal's parks and playgrounds; Charles Bronfman, Sidney Maislin and Lorne Webster, sponsors of the proposed club; Gerry Snyder, vice-chairman of the city's executive committee; and John McHale, administrator in baseball commissioner William D. Eckert's office.

Warren Giles, president of the National League who attended all-day meetings at city hall Wednesday, visited Jarry Park Wednesday night with McHale and Mayor Drapeau and returned to New York early Thursday morning.

The current seating capacity of the ball stadium at the enormous Jarry Park site is only 3,000; but it would be expanded to about 30,000 to meet the league's requirements.

The plan to use Jarry Park as a temporary stadium until a new stadium, possibly domed, appears to have revived the dying franchise which the city received May 27.

The sponsors rejected the plan to use the 25,000-seat Autostar stadium unless it could be improved, and the city is expected to have said it was impossible to carry out the necessary renovations.

"I don't feel like I'm steering the ball, but I must be," he said. He hit a three-iron shot beautifully.

"There. That's what I've got to do on the course. Release it like that," Alexander started slowly this season, and just now is reaching the form he usually displays.

"I'm hitting lots of good shots, but I'm also hitting too many bad ones. But I feel as though I'm on the edge. When I get there, I'll be able to say to hell with the rest of you guys."

Jones attributed his loss to lack of competition before coming to Canada. He hadn't played in a tournament since May.

He knew he had the ball moving well on the back nine, but he said, "I don't charge, I don't play defensively. No matter what the pressure, I just concentrate on playing the best golf I can. I don't do anything different."

In other key first round matches, Jim Doyle, the medalist from Winnipeg, trimmed Duncan Stockwell of Edmonton 7 and 6; Doug Silverberg of Calgary easily disposed of James Smith of Clonville, N.Y., 6 and 4; Laurie Scott of Edmonton shaded John Ellison of Toronto 2 up; Bob Wylie of Calgary bounced Joey Buchan of Edmonton 6 and 4; Rick Wooley of Calgary upset former champion John Johnston of Vancouver 1 up, and Gary Cowan of Kitchener defeated James Metcalfe of Edmonton 5 and 4.

Two more rounds are scheduled for today and two more Saturday. The 36-hole final is scheduled Sunday.

First Victory For Decker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Joe Decker pitched the Tacoma Cubs to a 3-1 victory over the Mounties in Vancouver last night and picked up his first PCL victory.

Decker retired the first 15 Mountie batters before Rene Lachemann bounced a single to left field to open the sixth inning. He was erased in a double play, Vancouver threatened with one run in the seventh but to no avail.

It was the third straight win for the Cubs as the teams wound up their season's encounters with Tacoma holding a 12-8 edge.

Elsewhere, the Oilers exploded for six consecutive hits, including two homers, after two outs in the sixth, to win 10-3 over Denver at Tulsa while the 89ers edged Portland 7-6 in Oklahoma City.

The Giants scored eight runs in the sixth en route to a 11-6 come-from-behind victory over Indianapolis in Phoenix. Seattle led the Indians 1-1 in Spokane and the Padres cracked five runs in the fourth to beat Hawaii 5-1 in San Diego and break a seven-game losing streak.

Left-hander Bob Meyer (4-6) battled the Cubs' Decker through six scoreless innings until John Bocabella, Wednesday night's hero, singled to open the seventh.

Bocabella easily stole second against the erratic throwing of reliever Rene Lachemann and raced home on Mike White's safety. Later in the inning, with two out, Decker beat out a single to shortstop and Jim Qualls drove both runners home with a triple to the right field corner.

The win gives Tacoma a three game lead over last place Vancouver 19 1/2 games back of the western division leading Spokane Indians. Hawaii is still second, 1 1/2 games back.

Tulsa leads the Eastern Division also with a 7 1/2 game lead over second place Phoenix and 1 1/2 games ahead of third position San Diego.

McLain A Step Closer To Winning 30 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many great pitchers have tried to climb toward the coveted 30-victory season in the last 34 years and all have stumbled. Now long comes Denny McLain. The 24-year-old Detroit Tigers righthander took the 23rd step toward the top Thursday night and he shows no sign of faltering.

McLain breezed through a six-inning behind a 15-hit attack that buried Cleveland 13-1 for his fifth straight victory.

With 50 games remaining, McLain has about 12 more starts to take those last seven steps, the Tigers are counting on to help them wrap up the American League pennant. No. 23 retained the Tigers' 6½-game lead over Baltimore. The Orioles kept pace by belting four home runs that ruined Minnesota 10-3 for challenging Baltimore's ninth victory in 11 games.

CULP PACES BOSTON

In other games, Ray Culp and Boston tripped Chicago White Sox 1-0. Washington slugged California 7-2 and Oakland bounced New York Yankees 6-4.

The last pitcher in the major leagues to win 30 games was Dizzy Dean in 1934. Dean added 28 in 1935 and since then many have come close.

Hal Newhouser won 29 one season. Robin Roberts won 28. Sandy Koufax, Bucky Walters, Don Newcombe, Dizzy Trout and Bob Feller each won 27 and Carl Hubbell had 26.

McLain, who has lost only three times, seems to have a good chance to succeed where they failed. Along with a heavy-hitting club behind him, he has been almost untouchable on the mound.

Poor Night For Managers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strategically speaking, it wasn't the best of nights for managers Harry Walker and Dave Bristol. But there was no strategy in the world Walt Alston could use against Rick Wise and Rich Allen.

Wise pitched a brilliant one-hitter and Allen's 23rd homer gave Philadelphia a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles Thursday night. There was little Dodger Manager Alston could do about it.

But a bit of Walker's managerial manoeuvring backfired as Pittsburgh beat Houston 4-3, and St. Louis shaded Cincinnati 1-0, collecting as many hits in one inning off Bristol's relief pitcher as they had in nine against his starter.

In the only other National League game Thursday, Chicago's Bill Hands shut out Atlanta 4-0.

Wise squared his record at 8-8, allowing only a bad-hop single by Bart Shirley in the third inning. The young right-hander struck out five.

OPENS WITH HOMER

Bill Singer matched zeroes with Wise until the ninth when Allen opened with his 23rd homer, a long shot that landed in the centre field pavilion at Dodger Stadium.

Unlike Alston, Walker had a fighting chance against the Pirates. Houston and Pittsburgh were tied at 4-3 in the ninth when Matty Alou walked with one out. After Fred Patek, who had homered earlier, struck out, Alou raced to second on a wild pitch.

Now Walker decided to walk Roberto Clemente, who has driven in 38 runs this season, and pitched instead to Donn Clendenon, who had hit 13.

Clendenon responded with a run-scoring single, breaking the tie and giving reliever Ron Kline his ninth victory in 10 decisions.

Ray Washburn of St. Louis and Tony Cloninger of Cincinnati locked up in a brilliant pitching duel, matching two hit shutouts over the first nine innings.

LATE RALLY

The Reds rolled in the 10th with Johnny Bench and Tony Perez stroking consecutive one-out singles. After Tommy Helms popped up, Washburn got Mack Jones on a fly ball, ending the threat.

Bristol, figuring Cloninger had gone far enough, brought on Clay Carroll. The Cards went down in the 10th but won it in the next inning when Bobby Tolan singled with one out and raced all the way home on Roger Maris' double.

Joe Hoerner, who took over for Washburn after the tough 10th, got credit for the victory and Carroll took the loss.

Bill Williams drove in two of Chicago's runs and Hands won his 13th game with a three-hitter over the Braves.

Williams' 16th homer gave Hands a quick lead and the Cub righthander later scored two runs himself as Chicago regained second place.

REMEMBER WHEN... Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., won his third Canadian open golf championship 27 years ago today in 1941 with a blazing finish at Toronto's Lambton golf course. Winner in 1938 and 1940, Snead fired a one-under-par 69 in the final round to beat Bob Gray of Toronto by two strokes, with a 72-hole score of 274.

Decision Will Make Orr Highest-Paid Hockey Star

TORONTO (CP) — A couple year, but the fringe benefits are excellent.

Orr decided to play in the National Hockey League rather than for Canada's national team. That decision is making him a wealthy man.

At 18, Orr signed a two-year contract with Boston Bruins for between $40,000 and $60,000 a year. His lawyer, Alan Eagleson of Toronto, described that contract as the best "ever offered to a junior player by a professional club."

Today Orr, now 20, has a new three-year contract in his hands. And he must be the envy of every other player in the NHL.

The contract, signed Tuesday, has been estimated at about $400,000.

Orr's base pay is believed between $40,000 and $50,000 a year, but the fringe benefits are excellent. The contract is reported to involve a big life insurance policy, a $25,000 bonus if Boston should win the Stanley Cup, and a guaranteed five-figure income until he is 45.

The only worry he has about his future concerns his knees. He had a knee operation last year and additional surgery this summer.
